

Czechs Accept Anglo-French Peace Program

Decision Reached After Three Days of Discussion
APPEAL FOR CALM
Land to be Ceded Still Subject to Negotiations

Prague—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government announced officially at 7:25 p. m. (1:25 p. m. E.S.T.) today its acceptance of the British-French plan for meeting the peace terms of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

The decision came at the end of three days of fateful discussion of the proposals agreed upon by British and French leaders in London as the price for maintaining peace in Europe.

The news of the capitulation came to Czechoslovaks by radio broadcasts carried through loudspeakers in the crowded streets of Prague.

The announcement said Czechoslovakia's final decision to yield to the British-French plan was communicated by Foreign Minister Kamil Krofka to the British and French Ministers at 5 p. m. (11 a. m. E.S.T.).

A communique was issued from the office of Premier Milan Hodza at the same time as the announcement was broadcast.

It said the proffered solution of the Czechoslovak-German dispute was accepted at the urgent representation of France and England.

"Our friends to whom we have been attached for 20 years advised us to secure peace by making territorial sacrifices," it said.

"Czechoslovakia suggested a settlement by judgment of the international court but that suggestion was rejected."

"What is to be lost is still the subject of negotiations."

"Your government in the interests of peace decided to make some sacrifice to avoid suffering and the loss of its whole existence."

"Czechoslovakia was threatened with violence," the statement said. "Destruction of the state was threatened."

It declared that the changes to be worked out in the Sudeten German region to be ceded to Germany still was the subject of negotiations.

Changes Not Yet Made
At the moment, it said, nothing in the structure of the nation and its administrative machinery was changed.

"Existing laws prevail, all officials retain their positions," it continued. "Normal functions of the state carry on."

The announcement intimated that a vast amount of details to regulate the transfer of Sudetenland to Hitler's greater Germany must be settled by international discussion.

There was no suggestion of the amount of territory to be ceded to Germany nor which of the Bohemian territories were to be declared autonomous within the Czechoslovak state.

Silence fell over crowds, which earlier had been demonstrating in the streets, as the government's words were broadcast.

Then, in a few minutes, excitement spread like wildfire through the streets.

The government's announcement included a plea to the populace to maintain discipline.

Soldiers particularly were asked to remain calm.

Appeal to People
"Workers, farmers, employees, employers, soldiers, keep steady nerves," the appeal said.

"Do not shirk your ordinary duties. Do your job while your authorized officials strive to assure saving the state and to serve the peace of Europe."

The state needs strength. It needs a demonstration of your confidence in it.

"By violence nothing can be solved. Excitement now may injure the republic."

"The protection of all citizens is assured. Avoid violence, do not lose courage. Be true to your country and to yourself, and you will be victorious."

The communique explained that the British-French plan for meeting Hitler's demands was presented to the government here last week and that since then the republic had resorted to every device short of threat of war to avoid injury to the country.

It explained that the offer by Czechoslovakia to negotiate the dispute, precipitated by the German minority's demands, first for autonomy and then for union with Germany, in a spirit of compromise was inadequate by both British and French.

Stage Demonstration
A demarche from the two powers followed and Czechoslovakia saw no way out but to yield to what the communique called "dynamic political forces" which were sweeping over Europe.

Crowds in the main streets were in an excited mood and the authorities were worried about the reaction of the Czechs to the definite news that the republic faced loss of considerable territory.

In the streets there were shouts of "rather war" and "we want a dictatorship."

A crowd estimated at more than 5,000 persons staged a noisy demonstration.

Troop Movements Are Seen as End Of Long Struggle

German Motor Trucks Carry Soldiers to Undisclosed Destination

London—(AP)—The foreign office announced tonight it had received Czechoslovakia's note accepting the Anglo-French proposals for meeting the demands of Adolf Hitler.

At the same time bitter opposition to the Anglo-French move to appease the German fuhrer swelled, even in the ranks of Prime Minister Chamberlain's conservative party.

Anthony Eden, his foreign minister until Feb. 20, in a speech at Stratford-on-Avon declared that the conviction is growing that continued retreat can only lead to ever-widening confusion.

Winston Churchill, conservative elder statesman, said "the idea that safety can be purchased by throwing a small state to the wolves is a fatal delusion."

Berlin—(AP)—A continuous stream of motor trucks rumbled through Berlin and eastern sections of Germany today, rushing troops to an undisclosed destination.

Germany apparently was getting ready for the final act in the Czech drama.

The movement in Berlin, where trucks were used to carry soldiers, was typical of what was reported throughout Germany, especially in the eastern sections, including Austria, which surround Czechoslovakia's western end.

Chancellor Hitler prepared to leave for Goebelsburg, where he is scheduled to assume the role of protector of Czechoslovakia's German, Hungarian and Polish minorities in a second meeting with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain tomorrow.

In German eyes it makes no difference whether the Prague government consents to or opposes partition of Czechoslovakia.

Ready to Fight
Reinforced by Polish and Hungarian assurances that those countries were prepared to fight for annihilation of the minorities in Czechoslovakia, Germany left the little republic but two choices: capitulation or annihilation by force.

The phrase "Germany" can not wait longer and will not wait long.

Start Probe of Train Collision

Federal and County Officials Take Part in Inquiry

Niland, Calif.—(AP)—Federal and county officials today investigated the collision of two Southern Pacific passenger trains at a little water stop near here which killed 11 persons and injured 100 yesterday.

The wreck was caused, Southern Pacific officials said, when a 64-year-old brakeman, Eric Leonard Jacobson, threw a switch which sent the New Orleans-to-Los Angeles Argonaut plunging at 60 miles an hour into the Los Angeles-to-Chicago Californian, standing on a siding.

J. H. Dyer, a vice president of the railroad whose private car was attached to the Argonaut, said Jacobson, walking about the chaotic scene in a trance, told him:

"I'm responsible for this wreck. I threw the switch. I am not crazy, but I do not know why I did it."

Deputy Coroner Herbert Hughes set an inquest for Friday.

East-west service was resumed after 20 hours.

The Southern Pacific said loss of equipment would total $132,000.

Nationwide Rail Strike Possibility As Result of Wage Cut; President Seeks Cooperation for Legislation

Washington—(AP)—Possibility of a nationwide railroad strike complicated today the efforts of railroad management and labor to fulfill President Roosevelt's request that they cooperate on legislation to aid the industry.

Representatives of both sides discussed their problems jointly with the chief executive yesterday.

Then they scheduled a meeting today to determine whether the threatened strike against a 15 percent wage cut would interfere with their following Mr. Roosevelt's proposals.

After mediation efforts failed recently, the carriers decreed the wage cut for Oct. 1. Railway labor is taking a vote to decide whether to strike. The result, to be announced next Monday, will affect about 900,000 workers.

President Roosevelt told reporters yesterday, however, he would appoint a commission to study the dispute. Under the national mediation act, the strike could not take place for 60 days after that body is selected.

"The commission would have 30 days to make its findings and recommendations. Labor and management would have an additional 30 days, described by government labor experts as a "cooling off" period, to study the report."

Mr. Roosevelt, concerned by the threat of war abroad and anxious to avert a rail tieup at home, asked both rail executives and union leaders to cooperate in drafting legislation.

HONORED BY LAWRENCE COLLEGE

In recognition of almost half a century of service in the Appleton public school system, Miss Carrie Morgan, above, was honored by Lawrence college this morning at its matriculation day program with the degree of master of arts. She was city superintendent of schools for 30 years and secretary of the board of education for 44 years. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Miss Morgan, Honored Today, Has Long Record of Service to Schools

BY VIOLA HELLMERMANN

Miss Carrie Morgan, who received an honorary master of arts degree from Lawrence college this morning, has been associated with education in Appleton since the days when horse-drawn buggies were the main mode of conveyance and ladies' skirts never showed more than an inch of their high-laced shoes.

It was back in 1894 that Miss Morgan was elected city superintendent of schools and secretary of the board of education, and she held the latter position for 44 years, resigning this spring.

She has had the rare privilege of seeing her name perpetuated on a city building in her own life time. At a meeting in June the board of education named "the old high school the Carrie E. Morgan school in her honor. The honor is particularly appropriate not only because of her long association with the school for her long association with the school and the orthopedic school, which it will house, but also because the school stands on the site of her former home."

La Follette had practically no contest, and was the choice of 1,130 Progressives, while 87 voted for Glenn P. Turner.

If Outagamie county had its way, Walter S. Goodland of Racine would be the nominee of both Democrats and Republicans for lieutenant governor. He had a lead of 387 votes over his Democratic opponent, Walter Schellpeffer, and he paced easily the other two Republican candidates by nearly 1,000 votes. Goodland received 2,311 votes in the Republican primary, compared with 1,595 for William H. Markham and 1,124 for Edward W. Richardson.

Zimmerman Leads
The Coalition candidate for secretary of state, John L. Wasson, didn't do so well. On the Democratic ticket Wasson ran third to William B. Cahoon who had 1,182 votes and Nathan Givan with 284.

Fred R. Zimmerman, former governor, had a commanding lead in the general election.

Try to Eradicate Mystery Disease

104 Persons Afflicted With Ailment; One Death Reported

Chicago—(AP)—Men in the street joined men in white today in a drive to trace and stamp out the source of a mysterious ailment that in a week afflicted 104 persons, one fatally.

While scientists toiled over their test tubes and beakers, examining all available clues, public-spirited men and women volunteered information and services for a systematic collection of facts of the cases.

The outbreak became known last week after the death of 53-year-old Earl Benson, a veteran railroad man of Elmwood Park, a western suburb. By yesterday, the cases numbered 54 in Elmwood Park, 47 in the northwest portion of Chicago and two in the nearby suburb of Oak Park. Most of those stricken were from modest homes in the same general neighborhood.

Sheriff Investigating
Fire at Viroqua Yard
Viroqua, Wis.—(AP)—Julius Krug of Madison, state fire marshal, was summoned to Viroqua last night by Sheriff G. W. Fowell, Jr., who is investigating the burning of two local lumber yards.

Viroqua's second disastrous lumber yard fire since Aug. 27 occurred Monday night when all but a few small sheds of the John E. Nuzum yard went up in flames, with a loss estimated at $35,000.

Fire at the Taylor Lumber company yard Aug. 27 caused damage also estimated at $35,000.

Superior Voters Reject Utility Purchase Plan
Superior—(AP)—Superior citizens voted yesterday against purchase of the Superior Water, Light and Power company at a price of $4,170,000 which had been set by the state public service commission. The vote was 6,282 to 6,075.

On a similar question, they voted against discontinuance of proceedings looking toward the company's purchase. The vote was 6,368 to 4,142.

Primary Pulls Only Third of County Voters

9,500 of the 27,500 Voters Register Choice in Yesterday's Election

REPUBLICANS LEAD

Henry Loses to Heil, Defeats Fox for gubernatorial nomination

Additional election stories will be found on pages 2 and 4.

Republicans came out of hiding in Outagamie county yesterday to furnish the only interest in one of the quietest primary elections in recent years. Less than 9,500 votes were cast in the whole county, about 32 per cent of the 27,340 votes cast for president two years ago. Republicans were responsible for considerably more than half of all the votes counted last night.

The Progressive vote, always first or second in this county, dropped to a poor third yesterday, in spite of the contest between Herman Ekern and Thomas Amle for the senatorial nomination. Politicians blamed the voters' apathy on the lack of local contests, pointing out that there were only two contested nominations among the Republicans for county offices and none at all among the Democrats. The Progressives did not even put a county ticket in the field.

Follow Pattern
Outagamie county followed the general state pattern in the selection of candidates for state offices. Robert K. Henry candidate of the Coalitionists, ran ahead of Jerome F. Fox, the Democratic convention choice, for the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, but trailed Julius P. Heil for the Republican nomination. Henry received 1086 votes in the Democratic primary to 972 for Fox. Edward C. Ihlenfeldt, a new comer in state politics, ran a very bad third with only 46 votes.

Henry ran a good second to Heil in the Republican primary, losing in the county by 178 votes. Heil polled 2560 while Henry got 2204. James G. Peterson, in the place was far behind the leaders, and Clun Miller, who toured the state in an automobile made to look like a locomotive, was in last place with 248 votes.

La Follette had practically no contest, and was the choice of 1,130 Progressives, while 87 voted for Glenn P. Turner.

If Outagamie county had its way, Walter S. Goodland of Racine would be the nominee of both Democrats and Republicans for lieutenant governor. He had a lead of 387 votes over his Democratic opponent, Walter Schellpeffer, and he paced easily the other two Republican candidates by nearly 1,000 votes. O'Connor's Democratic Defeat Is Roosevelt Triumph

SEES 'DISHONESTY'

Name on Ballot in November as Republican Nominee

By the Associated Press

The defeat of Representative John O'Connor for Democratic renomination in New York gave President Roosevelt today his first and only victory in his personal campaign against four Democratic legislators.

Mr. Roosevelt's sole triumph was not complete, however, because O'Connor will be on the November ballot, having won the Republican nomination by 1,000 votes over Allen W. Dulles.

The president tried and failed previously to prevent the return of three Democratic senators whom he classed as conservatives—George of Georgia, Smith of South Carolina and Tydings of Maryland.

O'Connor lost the Democratic nomination for the seat he has held since 1923 to James H. Fay, New Dealer who narrowly missed defeat, feasting him the American Labor party's nomination without opposition.

The Fay-O'Connor contest was the only one in four statewide primaries yesterday which had a national aspect.

The Massachusetts Democratic primary witnessed a triumphant comeback by former Governor James M. Curley who won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from Governor Charles F. Hurley. Curley had accused the governor of having failed to cooperate with the New Deal.

Curley, silver-haired, silver-tongued veteran of Bay State political wars, will meet Leverett Saltonstall, former speaker of the state legislature, in the general election.

3 State Senators, 4 Assemblymen Beaten at Polls

Most Legislators in Race Win Place on Party Tickets

At least three state senators and four assemblymen were defeated for renomination in yesterday's primary, but apparently most of the legislators who ran again won the right to appear on the November ballots.

A nip-and-tuck race was on in the Eleventh senatorial district where Philip Nelson, Republican state senator, had a slight edge over Assemblyman Harry Bergen. Sioren, in the fight for the Progressive senatorial nomination. Assemblyman Michael Hall, Superior, was third.

In the Nineteenth district Senator Pierce Morrissey, Rush Lake, lost the Democratic nomination to Robert Heckner, Menasha; and Herbert G. Pitz, blind Oshkosh youth, led for the Progressive nomination.

Senator John A. Anderson, Rice Lake, was trailing Albert J. Connors, Barron, in incomplete returns from the Twenty-ninth district.

Two Democratic state senators were eliminated in the Milwaukee primaries. Senator James Callan lost the nomination in the Ninth district to Assemblyman Cornelius T. Young, and Senator Max Galaskinski lost in the Seventh district to Anthony P. Gawronski.

Senator Arthur L. Zimny, Delmar, who with Senator Nelson helped the Progressives control the state senate last year, apparently was nominated again on the Democratic ticket.

Assemblyman David Sigman, Two Rivers, was eliminated in the senatorial primary in the First district, where George W. Kiel, Franklin, won the Progressive designation.

Four assemblymen who definitely had lost were Edwin Bloomquist (P), Adams-Marquette counties; James D. Miller (P), Dunn county, who was defeated by Arvid F. Gilbert; Earl D. Hall (P), Monroe county, defeated by Alex Nicol; and Charles A. Beggs (P) Barron, who was trailing two opponents.

Teachers Again Receive Money

Paid in Cash in Illinois City for First Time in 8 Years

Johnston City, Ill.—(AP)—The "payless paydays" which had kept Johnston City High school teachers living from hand to mouth for the past eight years were today only a nightmare of the past.

The school's 16 teachers are eating at home again, enjoying some luxuries and living more normal lives, in anticipation of full cash wages at the end of September for the first time since 1930.

Because of the school district's financial troubles, including an inability to collect taxes, the teachers have been paid in discounts ranging from 10 cents to as high as 50 cents on the dollar. They received their first cash—$25 a month—last year.

Monthly, single teachers could exchange $23 worth of scrip at the store for food, clothing, and some other necessities. Married teachers could cash $38 a month, and an additional $5 for each additional dependent.

Now, however, Johnston City has been allotted state funds, and its 16 teachers will get their wages in "hard money."

Reveal Huckins Death In Federal Hospital

Elmer S. Huckins, convicted in what the federal government claimed was a $2,000,000 swindle, was reported here today.

Huckins died in the federal hospital at Springfield, Mo., last Wednesday and was buried quietly Sunday at Necedah, Wis., his boyhood home.

He had been transferred to the hospital 18 months ago while serving a 15-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans. Death was due to heart disease and cancer.

Huckins operated a thorough cigar business into which residents of many states put hundreds of thousands of dollars in expectation of returns of 26 and 52 per cent. Government lawyers declared at his Milwaukee trial several years ago that Huckins paid the interest out of funds sent to him by other investors.

But the primary turnout was light and many thousands of eligible electors, who probably will vote in November, remained away from the polls.

Lieutenant Governor Herman L. Ekern defeated representative Thomas R. Amle for the progressive senatorial nomination and Alexander Wiley, a Republican candidate for governor, received the Republican endorsement to oppose Democratic Senator F. Ryan Duffy. The Democrats nominated Duffy without opposition.

Returns from 2,864 precincts of 2,994 in Wisconsin for United States senator gave:

Progressive: Amle 67,116; Ekern 75,269.

Republican (2,865 precincts): Campbell 23,706; Chapple 52,672; McMahon 11,726; Stamp 23,182; Stafford 26,342; Wiley 68,819.

Phil Wins Easily
Governor LaFollette routed the attempt of the Socialists to defeat him for re-nomination to a fourth term on the Progressive ticket. He defeated Glenn P. Turner, of Madison, Socialist member of the Farmer-Labor—Progressive Federation, by a vote of nearly 5 to 1.

For governor, 2,864 precincts of 2,994 in Wisconsin gave:

Progressive: LaFollette 126,486; Turner 31,545.

Democrat (2,894 precincts): Fox 48,614; Henry 62,557; Ihlenfeldt 10,789.

Republican (2,897 precincts): Heil 124,091; Henry 70,902; Miller 6,665; Peterson 19,421.

Although he had been charged by leaders with desertion of the Democratic party and the Roosevelt administration, Henry retained much of the Democratic support that elected him state treasurer for two terms. He ran well in Milwaukee county and earned most of the 71 counties.

Milwaukee for Heil
Counties of southern and western Wisconsin, where there is a large conservative following, also supported him for the Republican nomination, but Heil drew heavily upon the regular Republican vote of Milwaukee, the lakeshore district and the northern area.

The candidacy of Peterson, Medford cooperative leader who sought to marshal the farm vote, proved no obstacle to Heil.

The nomination of Henry gives the Democrats a conservative candidate for governor, who announced he could continue the coalition movement, pointing to the

Elections in Brief

Wisconsin—(AP)—Governor Philip LaFollette wins renomination for fourth term; Robert K. Henry, coalitionist, leads for Democratic gubernatorial nomination but trails Julius P. Heil on Republican slate; Senator F. Ryan Duffy unopposed for Democratic renomination; Herman L. Ekern, Progressive, and Alexander Wiley, Republican, lead in senatorial races.

New York—Representative John O'Connor, opposed by President Roosevelt, loses Democratic nomination to James H. Fay, New Dealer, but wins in Republican primary.

Massachusetts—Former Governor James M. Curley defeats Governor Charles F. Hurley in Democratic gubernatorial contest; Leverett Saltonstall will be Republican opponent.

New Jersey—Former Senator W. Warren Barbour easily wins Republican senatorial nomination; William H. J. Ely unopposed for Democratic nomination.

Milwaukee—(AP)—Governor LaFollette will be opposed for reelection in November by Robert K. Henry of Jefferson on the Democratic ticket and Julius P. Heil of Milwaukee on the Republican ticket, according to nearly complete returns from Tuesday's primaries, in which Republican voters turned thumbs down on the coalition movement.

Henry held a safe lead over the Democratic organization candidate, Jerome K. Fox, Chilton, but he was smothered by Heil in his bid for the Republican nomination, by which he wished to weld the old parties into a fusion drive against LaFollette.

Only a sudden reversal of the general trend in unreported precincts could switch the Democratic nomination from Henry to Fox.

The Republicans rode to the top of the list in primary polling power yesterday, marking an ascent from third place since the elections of 1934. They gathered nearly twice as many votes as the Democrats and ran well ahead of the Progressives who placed second.

Light Balloting
But the primary turnout was light and many thousands of eligible electors, who probably will vote in November, remained away from the polls.

Lieutenant Governor Herman L. Ekern defeated representative Thomas R. Amle for the progressive senatorial nomination and Alexander Wiley, a Republican candidate for governor, received the Republican endorsement to oppose Democratic Senator F. Ryan Duffy. The Democrats nominated Duffy without opposition.

Nation's Primary Elections Bring High Total Vote

Lawrence Finds 15 Per Cent Increase in Number of Ballots Cast

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—With primary election season about over, it appears that virtually the highest total vote has been cast in all the history of primary elections.

Not only has the 1938 primary total been exceeded, but also the totals of the primaries in the last congressional election which did not coincide with the presidential contest, namely 1934.

Compiling the returns from 28 states where primary elections have just been held, "The United States News," in a copyrighted article this week, reveals that 16,472,099 voters took part in the primaries this year, as compared with 14,179,171 in 1936 and 14,264,013 in 1934.

Thus, the 1938 increase over 1934, which is really the better year for comparison purposes, was about 15 per cent. If this percentage is maintained in the final elections, it may be that 38,000,000 votes will be cast in this year's congressional election, as compared with 33,000,000 in 1934. It is not unusual for a congressional election to bring out a smaller vote in some instances than a presidential race because often a primary race settles the issue for a given district or state. The signs point to a heavy vote in the northern states, where interest in many primary contests has not been intensified by presidential intervention.

Accentuates Interest
Unquestionably, the president's effort to form a conservative-liberal coalition has accentuated interest in the primaries this year, but public attention has been focused only on those contests inside the party where this division can be made. In the vast majority of cases, New Dealers have been renominated without opposition in the party primaries and they face the barrage of independent Democratic and Republican votes for the first time when the final election takes place. Assuming the same type of controversy which brought out the big vote for the primaries, the final contests should be participated in by an unprecedented number of voters for a congressional off-year election.

It is interesting to note that, of the 28 states from which reports on the primaries are available, the only ones in which the 1938 vote was less than 1934 were Iowa, Kansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska and North Dakota. The main surprise was Iowa, where it was believed that the president's opposition to Senator Gillette would certainly bring out the vote. Farmers may have been busy at the time or else local opinion held that a close contest was not foreshadowed. Sometimes, when the outcome is a foregone conclusion, many voters do not take the trouble, especially in rural areas, to go to the polling places.

There may or may not be, incidentally, some substance to the president's recent contention that Republicans have been voting this year in the Democratic primaries. The 28 states show a slightly smaller Republican total as compared with 1934, while the Democratic total is about 2,000,000 larger than four years ago. Many Republican contests, to be sure, were tame affairs with no excitement, whereas the Democratic contests were in the limelight and naturally attracted more attention.

Various Causes
Just why primary votes increase or decrease, however, may be related to various causes. Thus, in Florida, where the poll tax has been repealed since the 1934 elections, the increase amounted to about 100 per cent, whereas, in Mississippi, right next door, there was a decrease of 40 per cent. That the region where the primaries are held makes little difference, but that local issues do may be inferred from the fact that of the 2,000,000 increase in the Democratic total, almost 600,000 came from the increased primary vote in four states—Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee and Texas—three of them widely separated from each other geographically.

Perhaps the reason why 1938 had a smaller vote over 1934 is that party unity is much better in a presidential year than in an off-year election. Mr. Roosevelt's effort to influence the primaries of his own party may leave scars which will carry over into the 1940 pre-convention fights and congressional contests of that year, but there is no precedent on which to base a judgment because no party leader with the prestige and power of the presidential office has ever carried on such a far-reaching or intensive campaign for his own candidates as Mr. Roosevelt has this year.

The full significance of the conservative-liberal controversy, however, may be obscured by the congressional contests in November, because the lines are likely to be drawn in many districts between 100 per cent support of the New Deal on the one hand, and middle-of-the-road attitudes on the part of Republicans and Democrats, such as the triumphant nominees adopted during the primary "purge" season.

Third of County Voters Register Primary Choice

The Republican primary, polling more than three times as many votes as his two opponents combined. Zimmerman received a total of 3,977 while Lee I. Yorkson had 513 and Wasson finished with 627.

John M. Smith, Coalition candidate for state treasurer, ran ahead on both tickets, polling 1,076 votes as compared with 589 for his Democratic rival, Fred A. Russell, and he received 2,627 votes in the Republican primary to defeat Alonzo H. Wilkinson who had 1,900.

John E. Martin, the Coalition choice for attorney general, was an easy victor over Richard P. Murray in this county for the Republican nomination for attorney general, but he wasn't quite able to nose out James E. Finnegan, former Democratic attorney general, for the Democratic nomination.

Martin polled 711 votes, while Finnegan got 740. LaVern R. Dilweg, former Green Bay Packer football star, was third in the Democratic contest, with 469.

The Union party failed to make much of an impression in the primary, polling only 272 votes. Union candidates drew a blank in quite a number of the precincts. There was no contest in the party, and slight attention was paid to the ballot.

Because of the light vote, the counting was finished comparatively early in most precincts. Combined Locks was the first to report, finishing its count shortly after 6 o'clock, an hour after the polls closed. By 10:30 half the precincts had reported in, more than usually had reported at 1 o'clock on other election days.

New Low Record Maple Creek set a new record for low when it polled a total of 33 votes for all the candidates for governor. Two years ago 235 Maple Creek residents voted for president.

In Hortonville only 41 of the 241 voters in the town went to the polls, and in Deer Creek 40 persons voted in the primary, where as two years ago 252 expressed a choice for president. The vote in these towns was quite typical of the way it went in the county, most of them registering less than one-third of their voting power.

Maple Creek furnished another interesting sidelight when all 16 of its Republican voters cast their ballots for Fred R. Zimmerman for secretary of state.

Complete tabulation of votes from Appleton was rendered impossible when election clerks from the third fifth ward precinct misunderstood their instructions and sealed their tabulations with the ballots and delivered them to the police station.

Miss Morgan Has 44-Year Record of Educational Work

Appleton. She was graduated from Appleton High school in 1881, five years after the school was established.

Three years ahead of her in the same school was John Murphy, who grew up to be one of the country's great surgeons. When Loyal Davis wrote his recent biography of the doctor, "J. B. Murphy," he came to see Miss Morgan and asked her to assist him with details of Murphy's early life.

Appleton's faith in her memory amuses Miss Morgan greatly. Hardly a day passes but she receives a query about some youngster who went to school in the '90s or the early years of the present century. Early school records were destroyed by fire, and therefore she often receives calls from school officials asking if she remembers some pupil who went to school here 40 years ago. She remembers surprisingly often.

Headed Sorority
After her graduation from the high school here Miss Morgan continued her studies at the University of Wisconsin, where she majored in the modern classical course and received a bachelor of literature degree. The degree, no longer given, is equivalent to a B. A. At the university she became a charter member of Gamma chapter of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. She served as national president of the sorority for four years, from 1915 to 1919.

Following her graduation from Wisconsin, she taught languages for several years in Neenah High school. She resigned upon the death of her mother and came to stay with her father in Appleton.

But she was soon to return to her career. In 1894, although she at first declined the position, she was elected city superintendent of schools and secretary of the board of education. The position of superintendent was a particularly difficult one at that time because the city public school system was divided into districts, each with a board of its own, and all of them disinclined to cooperate.

Superintendent 30 Years
Miss Morgan, however, had better success than any of her predecessors in pacifying the district boards and effecting a uniform system as possible, and she remained superintendent for 30 years. Then, in 1924, the union system was established here, the district boards were abolished, and Miss Morgan became assistant superintendent, purchasing agent and secretary of the board, all three of which positions she held for 14 years, until her resignation this spring.

During these years she had also had charge of the special schools, the school for the deaf, which she helped organize in 1896, the opportunity room and the orthopedic school. She helped to organize the kindergarten system and the vocational school and served for many years on the vocational school board.

In spite of her heavy duties she has found time to take an active part in other civic activities. She was a member of the library board for 28 years.

D. A. R. Member
She is a charter member of the Appleton chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which she was once regent, and also a charter member of the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women and of the Clio club, one of the city's oldest study clubs, of which she is now president.

In her home overlooking the Fox river on N. Green Bay street are numerous mementoes, books and furniture given to her by friends and school officials, in recognition of her long service in the educational life of the city.

THESE SIGNS MEAN TIME TO STOP

When you see an octagonal shaped sign on Wisconsin highways, it means stop and no less. If you don't, you're liable to meet up with the efficiency of local and county officers or become the guest of honor in a smash-up.

The sign at the left in the above picture is a warning that a stop sign is forthcoming. At the right, you see the stop sign. It means just what it says—that ahead of you there is "thru traffic" that must have a substantial break in it before you can join in.

Live Young Men, Willing to Work Are Taking Over Republican Party

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—A considerable amount of modernizing is taking place within the Republican party. The public generally has not realized it, because these changes are overshadowed nationally by the stereotyped and crotchety anti-Roosevelt propaganda which goes out from Washington headquarters and from the shopworn headlines of the party. Republicans have suffered woefully at the hands of their own stuffed shirts who have been turned loose to make the big speeches for the party.

This change is taking place down in the local roots of the party, as it should, although it has been aided and steered to a considerable degree by National Chairman John Hamilton, who realized after the 1936 defeat that whether the party needed new ideas or not, it certainly needed younger leaders with good strong backs who would get out and work. A new crowd of Republicans has taken hold in Connecticut, finally breaking the grip of the old machine headed by the late Henry Roraback, who had been boss of the Connecticut organization and an important factor in the party nationally for 30 years. Connecticut Republicans have just held their first state convention since his death and the new crowd made a clean sweep.

For governor, Republicans nominated a young hard-hitting candidate, Raymond E. Baldwin, who after his nomination took the convention floor and led a fight to wipe from the state slate a proposed candidate who had been sideswiped by the state's recent political scandals. For senator, Republicans nominated John A. Danaher, a successful lawyer who has won a following with labor in his state because he has handled a number of important cases defending labor. The party platform was shaped to appeal to labor, declaring against arbitrary use of injunctions in labor disputes, and urging maximum-hour and minimum-wage legislation.

Connecticut Republicans have been led in their reorganizing by Samuel Pryor, Jr., 40, who succeeded Roraback as national committeeman.

New York Chief is Making Many Changes
Significant changes are going on in New York where the new national committeeman, Kenneth Simpson, 43 years old, has taken over the powerful reins held since Taft's time by Charles D. Hilles. The striking thing about Simpson, apart from his efficiency and energy, is his practical sense. He saw that under Hilles the party in New York had come to be regarded as purely a front for Wall street. Simpson undertook to win back the mass confidence needed to give it a chance.

He got behind that left-winger, La Guardia, for mayor a year ago. He sent Bruce Barton to congress and has made him keynote for the coming state convention. He has shocked upstate Republicans by playing ball with the American labor party.

tics. Vermont two years ago replaced its veteran national committeeman with Harold W. Mason, 43, who is also secretary of the Republican national committee. California's Republican national committeeman is William F. Knowland, a 32-year-old publisher. Others could be named.

This is not a new dealizing of the Republican party. None of these men is a liberal in Roosevelt's sense of the term. They are more progressive than the old-timers but they operate more like the English Tories, conservatives who see that they must give a little ground to save any at all. Thus far the Republican party is undergoing not so much a change of ideas as a change of personnel, replacing tired and discouraged old men with live young fellows who are willing to work.

AS COLD AS ARCTIC ICE

The Living Age, a reliable American magazine translating and printing articles from many foreign countries, has published an article claimed to have been written by a German officer and which secured the prize offered by the German Military Academy for the best plan of attack on Czechoslovakia.

The Living Age secured this article in Poland from a Catholic publication printed there in the German language.

It is either spurious or Hitler wishes for some reason the world to know his plans. Certainly the German archives are not so loosely built that a Polish publication may secure such critical documents.

But, whether lost, strayed, stolen or forged the article does present a shuddering example of the cold-blooded manner in which the lives and happiness of millions of trusting and confiding people are tossed about as a deft cook plays with flapjacks.

The plan is known as Blitzkrieg, that is lightning war, and whether written in Germany or Poland appears logical in the extreme. Germany would strike the Czechs from every side, literally burying them with soldiers, guns and bombs in order that the territory might be subjected just as swiftly as a nation of 70 million, armed to the teeth, could overrun a nation of 15 million similarly armed. The object must be to flatten the Czechs so that the army could turn to the French at the west and the Russians at the east.

The procedure involves a good deal of psychology. If the Czechs are literally pulverized, their subjugation an accomplished fact, would France dare to cross the Rhine? With Asia in turmoil and the snarling Jap ready to spring into Siberia, with an angry people tired of being ground under the autocratic heel, would Russia dare to go to war? And if she did how would she get an army into Germany without subjugating Poland, a dangerous foe, and one who has no affection for the Soviets.

The author was much more afraid of France and England than of Russia. The Germans have good reason, of course, to snap their fingers at Russian army efforts since the World war established on hundreds of occasions the superiority of the German on the battlefield. Besides it is not expected that Russia will keep any promise made to Czechoslovakia excepting as its own interests dictate. But France and England present the enigma. Their armies are slow to move to action but they are next to impossible to stop when once moved.

It is all a great gamble and the winner cannot be fixed like the lucky number in the policy racket.

Heartlessness may be said to be the very core of a military plan, as witness this reasoning from the published article: "One of the main objectives must be to capture Prague and go even further... that the attack on Addis-Ababa succeeded was the main reason for Italy's success in Ethiopia; that Madrid did not fall in the autumn of 1936 is one of the main reasons for the slow progress of the Franco offensive. A further point is that the capture of Prague would put the care and administration of the whole country into confusion... The heaviest sacrifice must not be shunned in order to achieve this end."

If this published plan is authentic the civil war now raging among the Sudetens is accounted for since the plan proposed the creation of "occurrences" of this character as a basis to invite attack. If the article is not authentic it is just as valuable, since it must have been written by some military man entirely familiar with the stark horror and destruction which is war.

THE CRISIS FOR FRANCE

Many harsh words will be cast at France for her apparent breach of treaty in so unceremoniously leaving the Czechs in the lurch. Perhaps they are all justified. In cold print they seem to be, although France's commitment is to stand by the Czechs in case of any "unprovoked" attack which will provide at least the form of a debate even if but an empty one.

But the responsibility for actually marching into war is as terrible as ever weighed upon statesmen with any heart at all or any horror at approaching casualty lists.

France has nearly two million men called to the colors, men in the pink of health and youth ranging up to 27 years of age taken from every home in the land. The sordid thing about it all is that fighting men must be vibrant with health and hope and life and vigor. Graying temples find great difficulty in withstanding the physical rigors of a modern war of attrition.

But lest France be too far away, take her problem into our own bosom. Let the army consist of our sons and brothers. Review them well before giving forth that raucous "Forward! March!" Look them carefully in the eye for their eyes are bright and shining and if you give the orders many will soon be dull and cold. Observe their teeth, white, even and gleaming. Overlook not their smiles, their hair without a strand of white, their bronzed faces, erect youthful shoulders, and everywhere about them a bubbling spirit of willing sacrifice if their elders think it necessary.

Yet still another moment. Before taking the final plunge conjure up a field of battle, screaming shells overhead, the roar of explosives, rat-a-tat-tat of machine guns, barbed wire, mud, filth, agony, ether and that eternal death rattle of those whose stricken faces are now gray as the end draws nigh.

And after that full consideration order the advance into hell if you wish — and then you may criticize France freely.

"PINK" HAWLEY DIES

Oldtimers hereabouts felt the ground almost giving way beneath them when they read of the death of "Pink" Hawley, superb big league pitcher, the Carl Hubbell of his day, who could mow them down at the plate like the best piece of harvesting machinery and then stand up and bat .330 himself.

When Mr. Hawley retired from the big leagues, like many another before him he just had to be around a baseball park and so he came to manage one of the teams in the Wisconsin-Illinois League. When critical games were to be played or his team found itself in a tight spot he often took up mound duty again, with all of his old time skill and understanding.

And when he went in to pitch on those occasions when his team played away from home the very grandstands shook with rage mingled with high resentment and yet the hot desire to bring this top-notch down into the dust. Every ball he pitched, every step he took, every suggestion he made to an umpire, all were greeted alike with such roars of hostility emphasized with clenched fists as sapped the energies and tore the windpipes.

The crowds at baseball games when Mr. Hawley pitched around Wisconsin could not compare to the football games of today. A Sunday crowd might stretch to 3,000. But numbers aren't everything. What those crowds lacked in persons they made up in vehemence.

And now that the day is done with Mr. Hawley it is good to be able to add that he had that touch without which no athlete can ever rise to the pinnacle. He was on the dead level. Offers of bribes in the big leagues that touched $20,000 to throw a critical game left him strangely cold. "I'd like the money," he used to say, "but I prefer to sleep nights."

THE CHEESE STORY IN FIGURES

In 1931 Alabama did not make enough cheese to submit figures, if it made any. By 1937 it had shot close to 2 million pounds.

Louisiana that was only making a pittance by way of cheese in 1932 is now approaching a million pounds a year.

Oklahoma that in 1931 was making 429,000 pounds is now approaching 7 million.

Mississippi has gone in earnestly for cheese manufacture whereas Texas is boasting loudly of the fact — and it is a magnificent advance — that her place which was 30th but ten years ago is now actually 6th in the nation. She likewise prides herself that the first half of 1938 shows another 25 per cent increase of her cheese production over a similar period in 1937. This will bring her total for the current year well over 20 million pounds.

So long as national policies have created this unusual condition is it not manifest that Wisconsin simply must make great strides in extending consumption? Of course it is very unfair for the national government to so pull us down. When Wisconsin was building this industry no government at Washington offered it a bonus to convert cutover land into pasturage, no Great Humanitarian sent out checks with which to buy a dairy herd. We should at least get the credit for pulling the cotton planter up even if we find ourselves flat in the gutter, our face in the mud.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE BIRDS WILL SOON BE FLYING SOUTH

The birds will soon be flying south Along the blue roads of the sky. The robin with the hungry mouth Has grown strong wings and he can fly!

This summer when I saw his bill Upon the edge of that small nest, I did not know his mighty will Would take him from his mother's breast.

And carry him along the wind To such a blue and shining height! When birds fly south, my eyes shall find That little bird on his long flight.

My puny spirit shall grow strong, And my wings gather strength from his. For I will send my soul along The blue skyway of harmonies!

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

(Mr. Harrison, snatching some vacation, is serving in his own "guest columnist" by reprinting some of the stories out of his newspaper past.—Editor).

New York—Stories from a newspaperman's scrapbook:
Here are two stories, one the sequel of the other, which appeal to me as interesting journalistically because they evidence the power of the press. Both stories were written for The Associated Press and distributed to that organization's membership of more than 1,300 papers.

To those readers of this column who are interested academically in the structure of news stories, may I call attention to the use of the second person in the first story—a story structure rarely employed in news writing.

The stories were written ten years ago.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 29—(P)—Henry Olson, wherever you are, read this!

Convicted of slaying Floyd Stotler, oil station attendant, and sentenced to life imprisonment, you jumped your appeal bond last Thursday, didn't you? With your young wife you drove away, and your $10,000 bond was declared forfeited.

But you may come back now, Henry! That life sentence, though it still stands over you, is not likely to be enforced.

Do you know George Bliss and Morris Mahan? They are only 17 years old—nine years younger than you. They are under arrest, Henry, and the police say they have confessed they were the ones who held up the filling station last September and shot down Stotler when he resisted.

Mahan told police that Bliss fired the fatal shot. Bliss followed with a confession of his own, and the police found the boys' stories substantiated by much of the evidence used at your two trials—the first trial when the jury could not agree, and the second at which you were convicted.

You should come home, Henry, and thank your attorney, H. B. North, whose certainty of your innocence led to the uncovering of evidence which resulted in the Mahan and Bliss arrests yesterday. North heard rumors of a woman who had dropped remarks indicating you were innocent. She was questioned, and she told police that Mahan had admitted to her he had had a part in the holdup.

They are searching for you today, Henry, and your attorney is even more interested in finding you than the police.

You think it is too good to be true? You think such things happen only in novels? You are wrong. It is true. Come home, Henry Olson, and see!

Rockford, Ill., March 3—(P)—A man under sentence of life imprisonment for murder sat in a plainly furnished third floor room of a New Orleans rooming house, hiding from the law.

In the same building, on another floor, was his young wife, cooking supper to take to him. The man was Henry Olson, Rockford automobile mechanic, convicted of slaying Floyd Stotler in an oil station holdup last September. At liberty pending appeal for a new trial, he had fled, forfeiting his bond.

It was last Wednesday night, Mrs. Olson had prepared his supper. Outside, a newsboy was shouting the late editions. Mrs. Olson bought one, placed it on the tray with the food, and carried it to her husband's room. Idly, Henry Olson smoothed the paper before him. His glance wandered nervously over the page. Suddenly he stiffened, transfixed by these words which leaped out at him from under a Rockford dateline:

"Henry Olson, wherever you are, read this!" Quickly, his eyes drank in the words.

"Convicted of slaying Floyd Stotler, and sentenced to life imprisonment, you jumped your appeal bond, didn't you?" went on the Associated Press account. "But you may come back, Henry Olson. That life sentence, though it still hangs over you, is not likely to be enforced."

The story continued, telling that two youths had been arrested and had confessed to the murder of which he had been convicted. "You think it is too good to be true?" continued the newspaper story. "You are wrong. It is true. Come home, Henry Olson, and see!"

The Olsons were back in Rockford today, with only the formality of court action needed to clear his name.

Over the wires, to the corners of the nation, a news story had gone. Henry Olson had read it; and from the cold type of that New Orleans newspaper there had been born for a man and a woman the promise of a new and great happiness.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Sept. 19, 1928

Construction of a large store and office building on the southwest corner of College avenue and Oneida street was to begin a few days, it was announced by Irving Zuelke, who was financing the undertaking. The structure, estimated to cost between $350,000 and $400,000, was to be known as the Irving Zuelke building and was to replace the one razed by fire the previous January.

Howard Stacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stacker, Hewitt street, Neenah, was elected president of the senior class at Neenah High school. Charles Neugebauer was elected vice president. Miss Ruth Sawyer, secretary and treasurer, and Howard Reppe, faculty adviser, William H. Falatic, local manager of the Thompson Pulp and Paper company, had been chosen general chairman of the annual Salvation Army Home Sweet Home Appeal which was to be held here the following week.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Sept. 24, 1913

The paved streets of Appleton, or at least the asphalt and creosoted block pavements, in all probability were to be flushed next summer instead of simply swept. The plan was proposed in an effort to make Appleton a dustless city and reduce street cleaning expenses.

J. J. Sherman, William Peeters and William Conlon were named commissioners of the new Deer Creek Drainage district at a hearing before Judge John Goodland in circuit court the previous day.

While pouring vitriol at the Atlas mill Monday, William Captain and John C. Frieders were burned.

Among the motion pictures which Thomas A. Edison proposed to use as a medium of graphic instruction for school children in place of the present method of dry memorizing of facts was a series illustrating the battle of Trafalgar.

Lithium, the lightest metal known, is obtained from an alkaline substance called lithia. It was discovered in 1817.

Sales of American-produced condensed milk to Czechoslovakia jumped 300 per cent the first half of 1938 compared with 1937.

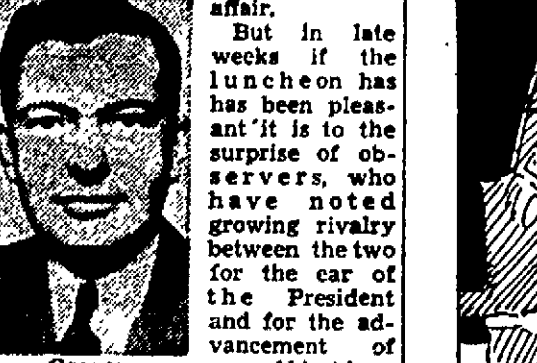

The Delta experiment station at Stoneville, Miss., is one of the largest in the world for the study of cotton production.

Many large South Louisiana sugar plantations have private railroads to haul cane to the mills for processing.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Almost every Saturday, Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, drives over to the Treasury for lunch with Secretary Morgenthau. Often it is a pleasant little affair.

But in late weeks if the luncheon has been pleasant it is to the surprise of observers, who have noted growing rivalry between the two for the ear of the President and for the advancement of conflicting views.

Morgenthau, behind the scenes, has opposed the pump-priming plan. Eccles favored it and the President liked it.

Most recently an equally sharp conflict arose between the two on an important bit of government policy that was hard to write into headlines but was nonetheless important. And again, Eccles had an edge.

By an agreement of the Treasury and controller of the currency (both Morgenthau's), the Deposit Insurance Corporation (independent) and Eccles' federal reserve, banks were given leeway, such as they had not had in many a day, in lending money to small local industry.

Out of the agreement are expected several things:

1. Expansion of bank loans to small industry for modernization and repairs amounting, in estimates here, to many millions, or perhaps a billion or more.
2. Benefit to big industry in filling machinery and equipment orders for little industry's modernization.
3. A healthier glow in the banking community as it expands its business and checks the tendency of the federal government to step in with credit where banks lately have refused to go.

For Liberal Attitude

Keystone in the agreement is the liberalization of the attitude of bank examiners toward banks in approving loans to small industry.

For 70 years or more the controller of the currency, director of bank examiners, has emphasized the importance of keeping banks not only sound but liquid. At the time of the "big flood" in 1929 and later, runs on banks were so frequent and furious that many went under because they could not sell perfectly "sound" but "slow" securities in a depression market.

The banking laws were revised in 1933 to provide that federal bank examiners would approve few long-time loans by banks except to concerns whose securities were listed on stock exchanges or otherwise nationally rated so as to be readily salable. That practically eliminated long-term loans to the local lumber company or foundry.

Rating Cost Out

The Eccles faction argues that several elements justify a change of policy:

First, that reserve bank laws now make it possible for banks to convert even slow securities into cash, if they are sound.

Second, the federal guarantee of deposits has decreased the prospect of bank runs, thus reducing the need for extremely liquid assets.

Third (and this is a matter of long-range credit policy), in times of stress, such as the present, bank examiners should encourage sound expansion of bank credit. Only on approaching booms should credit be contracted.

Fourth, the soundness of banks will be sustained best by reviving industry.

Under the new schedule, sound long-term loans can be approved without any rating and registering cost.

It wasn't a complete victory for Eccles, who had to compromise on several points.

Says Family Rows, Love Play Big Part In Auto Accidents

Dallas, Tex. — (P)—Love affairs and home troubles may play an important part in highway fatalities, Jerry H. Clark discovered in research he conducted at Southern Methodist University for a thesis on "some of the psychological factors in highway safety."

Motorists concentrate upon financial difficulties, love affairs, troubles at home or arguments with fellow workers, said Clark, and under such conditions their minds are not on their driving.

Consequently, drivers are more apt to "get out of control" than automobiles, Clark said. He said the term "accident" is a misnomer as only five of each 100 highway deaths are due to unforeseeable vehicular accidents.

WITHOUT BLOOMERS

Chicago — (P)—It will be perfectly legal for women to go swimming without bloomers and wear halpkins longer than six inches when ordinance changes made by the city council become effective.

Deletions and amendments will make other things legal, too, such as selling liquor in drug stores, showing motion pictures in private homes without a license and striding across bridges in perfect sleep.

CANNONBALLS GROW

Westaco, Tex. — (P)—"Cannonballs" may become a crop down in the lower Rio Grande valley.

The valley experiment station has a young tree known scientifically as "Couroupou Guianensis," which bears pods known as "cannonballs."

The pods are the size and shape of old-fashioned cannonballs and they explode when ripe, to scatter seeds.

July, now the seventh month of the year, was the fifth month during the Roman Empire. The month was named in honor of Julius Caesar who was born in it.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D. Noted Physician and Author

CASTOR OIL AN IRRITANT

The common notion, cherished by some old time doctors as well as laity, that castor oil is soothing to inflammation and hence all right to give in any acute abdominal trouble, is utterly wrong. In fact castor oil is an irritant, produces its cathartic effect chiefly by irritation of the stomach and bowel, and is just as harmful or even dangerous in the presence of acute biliaryache as is any laxative or cathartic.

An acute digestive disturbance, whether accompanied with colic, pain or just vague distress and tension must always be regarded as possible appendicitis, and therefore it is dangerous for the patient to take any kind of laxative or cathartic until the question of appendicitis is definitely settled. Administration of a physic in the early stage of appendicitis increases the chance of rupture and general peritonitis ensuing, whether operation is done or not. Therefore the warning should be posted in the medicine cupboard: Laxatives are Bad Medicine for Biliaryache.

Castor oil is good medicine for external use. Being somewhat soluble in alcohol a few drops of it will improve hair tonics or dandruff lotions which leave scalp or hair too dry.

A drop of castor oil in the eye will relieve the irritation caused by sand or by banular lids.

A mixture of equal parts of castor oil, olive oil and lanolin may be used with advantage by printers and other workers whose hands are much exposed to chemicals, solvents and harsh cleaning agents. Apply a few drops to skin of hands and arms before beginning work for the day, and again after cleaning up at the end of the day.

Altogether castor oil has probably done much more harm than good in the world. It has contributed much to the repugnance for medicine on the part of sick children and to the suspicion or fear of the doctor on the part of everybody. Of course there are ways to disguise the nauseous taste of castor oil and tricks of administering it so that a dose may be taken without breaking any commandments. But for the life of me I can't understand why any youngster for castor oil on his pan-cakes or on his stomach should take any. Please put this in the medicine cupboard too.

Of course a sick doctor is a fool to try to doctor himself. If I were sick I'd submit to the care of a well doctor, and if he prescribed a beaker of castor oil and maybe a nice big dose of calomel and careful protection against drafts I'd take it all without argument or else I'd fire the doctor and call in an up-to-date man. For I suppose as long as oldwives' tales are told some doctors will continue to prescribe castor oil and for all I know there may be honest, well-meaning practitioners still giving calomel.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m., until 12 noon; from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m.; from 6 to 8 p. m., and from 10 p. m., until midnight.

It might be well for you to plan for tomorrow. If it should be necessary, force yourself into an orderly frame of mind, and do nothing in a happy-go-lucky fashion, for this is a day that calls for everything being done in a systematic manner. Do not count on anyone to remind you of what you should or should not do this day. You must count on your own initiative to get whatever results you are after in either a social or commercial way. This is a good day to try to analyze the mental attitude of the average person with whom you are thrown into close contact. Your manner of approach may have much to do with the reception that will be accorded to you, in any walk you might make. Questions of a personal nature are likely to meet with rebuffs unless justified, so be tactful in this respect. Be careful how literally you take whimsically-made remarks, for many things will be said in jest that must not be accepted seriously. Married and engaged couples, and those seeking a way and means of becoming engaged, should keep in mind that: "In everything one must consider the end."

If a woman and September 22 is your birthday, you ought to be a very genial, happy woman, with a large circle of dependable friends. You probably love to be on the go, if not interested in sports, you should be in the theatre or social welfare work. You ought to use your hands cleverly and thus win a reputation for doing a skillful work. You will do well to remember that it never pays to tell all that you know to anyone. As a saleslady, model, entertainer, artist, musician, writer, actress or decorator your financial results may exceed your expectations. You will, more than likely, display exceptionally good judgment in the selection of a husband.

The child born on September 22 generally has unlimited energy, and is frequently blessed with a very retentive memory. Children born on this date often do exceptionally good work at school. This youngster's future seems to be one of great promise.

If a man and September 22 is your natal day, loyalty to family, friends and business associates is imperative if you expect to make a permanent success of your life. Scientific, historical research or exploratory work, as well as theatrical, financial, manufacturing, or some literary activity may enable you to succeed.

AS COLD AS ARCTIC ICE

The Living Age, a reliable American magazine translating and printing articles from many foreign countries, has published an article claimed to have been written by a German officer and which secured the prize offered by the German Military Academy for the best plan of attack on Czechoslovakia.

The Living Age secured this article in Poland from a Catholic publication printed there in the German language.

It is either spurious or Hitler wishes for some reason the world to know his plans. Certainly the German archives are not so loosely built that a Polish publication may secure such critical documents.

But, whether lost, strayed, stolen or forged the article does present a shuddering example of the cold-blooded manner in which the lives and happiness of millions of trusting and confiding people are tossed about as a deft cook plays with flapjacks.

The plan is known as Blitzkrieg, that is lightning war, and whether written in Germany or Poland appears logical in the extreme. Germany would strike the Czechs from every side, literally burying them with soldiers, guns and bombs in order that the territory might be subjected just as swiftly as a nation of 70 million, armed to the teeth, could overrun a nation of 15 million similarly armed. The object must be to flatten the Czechs so that the army could turn to the French at the west and the Russians at the east.

The procedure involves a good deal of psychology. If the Czechs are literally pulverized, their subjugation an accomplished fact, would France dare to cross the Rhine? With Asia in turmoil and the snarling Jap ready to spring into Siberia, with an angry people tired of being ground under the autocratic heel, would Russia dare to go to war? And if she did how would she get an army into Germany without subjugating Poland, a dangerous foe, and one who has no affection for the Soviets.

The author was much more afraid of France and England than of Russia. The Germans have good reason, of course, to snap their fingers at Russian army efforts since the World war established on hundreds of occasions the superiority of the German on the battlefield. Besides it is not expected that Russia will keep any promise made to Czechoslovakia excepting as its own interests dictate. But France and England present the enigma. Their armies are slow to move to action but they are next to impossible to stop when once moved.

It is all a great gamble and the winner cannot be fixed like the lucky number in the policy racket.

Heartlessness may be said to be the very core of a military plan, as witness this reasoning from the published article:

"One of the main objectives must be to capture Prague and go even further, that the attack on Czechoslovakia succeeded was the main reason for Italy's success in Ethiopia; that Madrid did not fall in the autumn of 1936 is one of the main reasons for the slow progress of the Franco offensive. A further point is that the capture of Prague would put the care and administration of the whole country into confusion. The heaviest sacrifice must not be shunned in order to achieve this end."

If this published plan is authentic the civil war now raging among the Sudetens is accounted for since the plan proposed the creation of "occurrences" of this character as a basis to invite attack. If the article is not authentic it is just as valuable, since it must have been written by some military man entirely familiar with the stark horror and destruction which is war.

THE CRISIS FOR FRANCE

Many harsh words will be cast at France for her apparent breach of treaty in so unceremoniously leaving the Czechs in the lurch. Perhaps they are all justified. In cold print they seem to be, although France's commitment is to stand by the Czechs in case of any "unprovoked" attack which will provide at least the form of a debate even if but an empty one. But the responsibility for actually marching into war is as terrible as ever weighed upon statesmen with any heart at all or any honor at approaching casualty lists.

France has nearly two million men called to the colors, men in the pink of health and youth ranging up to 27 years of age taken from every home in the land. The sordid thing about it all is that fighting men must be vibrant with health and hope and life and vigor. Graying temples find great difficulty in withstanding the physical rigors of a modern war of attrition.

But lest France be too far away, take her problem into our own bosom. Let the army consist of our sons and brothers. Review them well before giving forth that raucous "Forward! March!" Look them carefully in the eye for their eyes are bright and shining and if you give the orders many will soon be dull and cold. Observe their teeth, white, even and gleaming. Overlook not their smiles, their hair without a strand of white, their bronzed faces, erect youthful shoulders, and everywhere about them a bubbling spirit of willing sacrifice if their elders think it necessary.

Yet still another moment. Before taking the final plunge conjure up a field of battle, screaming shells overhead, the roar of explosives, rat-a-tat-tat of machine guns, barbed wire, mud, filth, agony, ether and that eternal death rattle of those whose stricken faces are now gray as the end draws nigh.

And after that full consideration order the advance into hell if you wish — and then you may criticize France freely.

"PINK" HAWLEY DIES

Oldtimers hereabouts felt the ground almost giving way beneath them when they read of the death of "Pink" Hawley, superb big league pitcher, the Carl Hubbell of his day, who could mow them down at the plate like the best piece of harvesting machinery and then stand up and bat .330 himself.

When Mr. Hawley retired from the big leagues, like many another before him he just had to be around a baseball park and so he came to manage one of the teams in the Wisconsin-Illinois League. When critical games were to be played or his team found itself in a tight spot he often took up mound duty again, with all of his old time skill and understanding.

And when he went in to pitch on those occasions when his team played away from home the very grandstands shook with rage mingled with high resentment and yet the hot desire to bring this top-notch down into the dust. Every ball he pitched, every step he took, every suggestion he made to an umpire, all were greeted alike with such roars of hostility emphasized with clinched fists as sapped the energies and tore the windpipes.

The crowds at baseball games when Mr. Hawley pitched around Wisconsin could not compare to the football games of today. A Sunday crowd might stretch to 3,000. But numbers aren't everything. What those crowds lacked in persons they made up in vehemence.

And now that the day is done with Mr. Hawley it is good to be able to add that he had that touch without which no athlete can ever rise to the pinnacle. He was on the dead level. Offers of bribes in the big leagues that touched $20,000 to throw a critical game left him strangely cold.

"I'd like the money," he used to say, "but I prefer to sleep nights."

THE CHEESE STORY IN FIGURES

In 1931 Alabama did not make enough cheese to submit figures, if it made any. By 1937 it had shot close to 2 million pounds.

Louisiana that was only making a pittance by way of cheese in 1932 is now approaching a million pounds a year.

Oklahoma that in 1931 was making 429,000 pounds is now approaching 7 million.

Mississippi has gone in earnestly for cheese manufacture whereas Texas is boasting loudly of the fact — and it is a magnificent advance — that her place which was 30th but ten years ago is now actually 6th in the nation. She likewise prides herself that the first half of 1938 shows another 25 per cent increase of her cheese production over a similar period in 1937. This will bring her total for the current year well over 20 million pounds.

So long as national policies have created this unusual condition it is not manifest that Wisconsin simply must make great strides in extending consumption?

Of course it is very unfair for the national government to so pull us down. When Wisconsin was building this industry no government at Washington offered it a bonus to convert cutover land into pasture, no Great Humanitarian sent out checks with which to buy a dairy herd. We should at least get the credit for pulling the cotton planter up even if we find ourselves flat in the gutter, our face in the mud.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE BIRDS WILL SOON BE FLYING SOUTH

The birds will soon be flying south
Along the blue roads of the sky.
The robin with the hungry mouth
Has grown strong wings and he can fly!

This summer when I saw his bill
Upon the edge of that small nest,
I did not know his mighty will
Would take him from his mother's breast

And carry him along the wind
To such a blue and shining height!
When birds fly south, my eyes shall find
That little bird on his long flight.

My puny spirit shall grow strong,
And my wings gather strength from his.
For I will send my soul along
The blue skyway of homelands!

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

(Mr. Harrison, snatching some vacation, is serving as his own "guest columnist" by reprinting some of the stories out of his newspaper past.—Editor.)

New York—Stories from a newspaperman's scrapbook:

Here are two stories, one the sequel of the other, which appeal to me as interesting journalistically because they evidence the power of the press. Both stories were written for The Associated Press and distributed to that organization's membership of more than 1,300 papers.

To those readers of this column who are interested academically in the structure of news stories, may I call attention to the use of the second person in the first story—a story structure rarely employed in news writing.

The stories were written ten years ago.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Henry Olson, wherever you are, read this!

Convicted of slaying Floyd Stotler, oil station attendant, and sentenced to life imprisonment, you jumped your appeal bond last Thursday, didn't you? With your young wife you drove away, and your $10,000 bond was declared forfeited.

But you may come back now, Henry! That life sentence, though it still stands over you, is not likely to be enforced.

Do you know George Bliss and Morris Mahan? They are only 17 years old—nine years younger than you. They are under arrest, Henry, and the police say they have confessed they were the ones who held up the filling station last September and shot down Stotler when he resisted.

Mahan told police that Bliss fired the fatal shot. Bliss followed with a confession of his own, and the police found the boys' stories substantiated by much of the evidence used at your two trials—the first trial when the jury could not agree, and the second at which you were convicted.

You should come home, Henry, and thank your attorney, H. B. North, whose certainty of your innocence led to the uncovering of evidence which resulted in the Mahan and Bliss arrests yesterday. North heard rumors of a woman who had dropped remarks indicating you were innocent. She was questioned, and she told police that Mahan had admitted to her he had had a part in the holdup. They are searching for you today, Henry, and your attorney is even more interested in finding you than the police.

You think it is too good to be true? You think such things happen only in novels? You are wrong. It is true. Come home, Henry Olson, and see!

Rockford, Ill., March 3.—(AP)—A man under sentence of life imprisonment for murder sat in a plainly furnished third floor room of a New Orleans rooming house, hiding from the law.

In the same building, on another floor, was his young wife, cooking supper to take to him. The man was Henry Olson, Rockford automobile mechanic, convicted of slaying Floyd Stotler in an oil station holdup last September. At liberty pending appeal for a new trial, he had fled, forfeiting his bond.

It was last Wednesday night, Mrs. Olson had prepared his supper. Outside, a newsboy was shouting the late editions. Mrs. Olson bought one, placed it on the tray with the food, and carried it to her husband's room.

Idly, Henry Olson smoothed the paper before him. His glance wandered nervously over the page. Suddenly he stiffened, transfixed by these words which leaped out at him from under a Rockford dateline:

"Henry Olson, wherever you are, read this!"

Quickly, his eyes drank in the words. Convicted of slaying Floyd Stotler, and sentenced to life imprisonment, you jumped your appeal bond, didn't you? Went on the Associated Press account. "But you may come back, Henry Olson. That life sentence, though it still hangs over you, is not likely to be enforced."

The story continued, telling that two youths had been arrested and had confessed to the murder of which he had been convicted. "You think it is too good to be true?" concluded the newspaper story. "You are wrong. It is true. Come home, Henry Olson, and see!"

The Olsons were back in Rockford today, with only the formality of court action needed to clear his name.

Over the wires, to the corners of the nation, a news story had gone. Henry Olson had read it; and from the cold type of that New Orleans newspaper there had been born for a man and a woman the promise of a new and great happiness.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Sept. 19, 1928

Construction of a large store and office building on the southwest corner of College avenue and Oneida street was to begin a few days, it was announced by Irving Zuelke, who was financing the undertaking. The structure, estimated to cost between $350,000 and $400,000, was to be known as the Irving Zuelke building and was to replace the one razed by fire the previous January.

Howard Stacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stacker, Hewitt street, Neenah, was elected president of the senior class at Neenah High school. Charles Neugebauer was elected vice president. Miss Ruth Sawyer, secretary and treasurer, and Howard Reppe, faculty adviser. William H. Falatick, local manager of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, had been chosen general chairman of the annual Salvation Army Home Service Appeal which was to be held here the following week.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Sept. 24, 1913

The paved streets of Appleton, or at least the asphalt and creosote block pavements, in all probability were to be flushed next summer instead of simply swept. The plan was proposed in an effort to make Appleton a dustless city and reduce street cleaning expenses.

J. J. Sherman, William Peeters and William Conlon were named commissioners of the new Deer Creek Drainage district at a hearing before Judge John Goodland in circuit court the previous day.

While pouring vitriol at the Atlas mill Monday, William Captain and John C. Frieders were burned.

Among the motion pictures which Thomas A. Edison proposed to use as a medium of graphic instruction for school children in place of the present method of dry memorizing of facts was a series illustrating the battle of Trafalgar.

Lithium, the lightest metal known, is obtained from an alkaline substance called lithia. It was discovered in 1817.

Sales of American-produced condensed milk to Czechoslovakia jumped 300 per cent the first half of 1938 compared with 1937.

The Delta experiment station at Stoneville, Miss., is one of the largest in the world for the study of cotton production.

Many large South Louisiana sugar plantations have private railroads to haul cane to the mills for processing.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Almost every Saturday, Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, drives over to the Treasury for lunch with Secretary Morgenthau. Often it is a pleasant little affair.

But in late weeks if the luncheon has been pleasant it is to the surprise of observers, who have noted growing rivalry between the two for the ear of the President and for the advancement of conflicting views. Morgenthau, behind the scenes, has opposed the pump-priming plan. Eccles favored it and the President liked it.

More recently an equally sharp conflict arose between the two on an important bit of government policy that was hard to write into headlines but was nonetheless important. And again, Eccles had an edge.

By an agreement of the Treasury and controller of the currency (both Morgenthau and the Deposit Insurance Corporation, independent) and Eccles' federal reserve banks were given leeway, such as they had not had in many a day, in lending money to small local industry.

Out of the agreement are expected several things:

1. Expansion of bank loans to small industry for modernization and repairs amounting, in estimates here, to many millions, or perhaps a billion or more.

2. Benefit to big industry in filling machinery and equipment orders for little industry's modernization.

3. A healthier glow in the banking community as it expands its business and checks the tendency of the federal government to step in with credit where banks lately have refused to go.

For Liberal Attitude

Keystone in the agreement is the liberalization of the attitude of bank examiners toward banks in approving loans to small industry.

For 70 years or more the controller of the currency, director of bank examiners, has emphasized the importance of keeping banks not only sound but liquid. At the time of the "big flood" in 1929 and later, runs on banks were so frequent and furious that many went under because they could not sell perfectly "sound" but "slow" securities in a depression market.

The banking laws were revised in 1933 to provide that federal bank examiners would approve few long-term loans by banks except to concerns whose securities were listed on stock exchanges or otherwise nationally rated so as to be readily saleable. That practically eliminated long-term loans to the local lumber company or foundry.

Rating Cast Out

The Eccles faction argues that several elements justify a change of policy:

First, that reserve bank laws now make it possible for banks to convert even slow securities into cash, if they are sound.

Second, the federal guarantee of deposits has decreased the prospect of bank runs, thus reducing the need for extremely liquid assets.

Third (and this is a matter of long-range credit policy), in times of stress, such as the present, bank examiners should encourage sound expansion of bank credit. Only on approaching booms should credit be contracted.

Fourth, the soundness of banks will be sustained best by reviving industry.

Under the new schedule, sound long-term loans can be approved without any rating and registering cost.

It wasn't a complete victory for Eccles, who had to compromise on several points.

Says Family Rows,
Love Play Big Part
In Auto Accidents

Dallas, Tex. — (AP)—Love affairs and home troubles may play an important part in highway fatalities. Jerry H. Clark discovered in research he conducted at Southern Methodist University for a thesis on "some of the psychological factors in highway safety."

Motorists concentrate upon financial difficulties, love affairs, troubles at home or arguments with fellow workers, said Clark, and under such conditions their minds are not on their driving.

Consequently drivers are more apt to "get out of control" than automobiles, Clark said. He said the term "accident" is a misnomer as only five of each 100 highway deaths are due to unforeseeable vehicular accidents.

WITHOUT BLOOMERS

Chicago — (AP)—It will be perfectly legal for women to go swimming without bloomers and wear hosiery longer than six inches when ordinance changes made by the city council become effective.

Deletions and amendments will make other things legal, too, such as selling liquor in drug stores, showing motion pictures in private homes without a license and parading across bridges in perfect step.

CANNONBALLS GROW

Weslaco, Tex. — (AP)—"Cannonballs" may become a crop down in the lower Rio Grande valley.

The valley experiment station has a young tree known scientifically as "Couroupita Guianensis," which bears pods known as "cannonballs."

The pods are the size and shape of old-fashioned cannonballs and they explode when ripe, to scatter seeds.

July, now the seventh month of the year, was the fifth month during the Roman Empire. The month was named in honor of Julius Caesar who was born in it.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until 12 noon; from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m.; from 6 to 8 p. m., and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

It might be well for you to plan for tomorrow. If it should be necessary, force yourself into an orderly frame of mind, and do nothing in a happy-go-lucky fashion, for this is a day that calls for everything being done in a systematic manner. Do not count on anyone to remind you of what you should or should not do this day. You must count on your own initiative to get whatever results you are after in either a social or commercial way. This is a good day to try to analyze the mental attitude of the average person with whom you are thrown into close contact. Your manner of approach may have much to do with the reception that will be accorded to you, in any calls you might make. Questions of a personal nature are likely to meet with rebuffs unless justified, so be tactful in this respect. Be careful how literally you take whimsically made remarks, for many things will be said in jest that must not be accepted seriously. Married and engaged couples, and those seeking a way and means of becoming engaged, should keep in mind that in everything one must consider the end.

If a woman and September 22 is your birthday, you ought to be a very genial, happy woman, with a large circle of dependable friends. You probably love to be on the go. If not interested in sports, you should be in the theatre or social welfare work. You ought to use your hands cleverly, and thus win a reputation for doing skillful work. You will do well to remember that it never pays to tell all that you know to anyone. As a saleslady, model, entertainer, artist, musician, writer, actress or decorator your financial results may exceed your expectations. You will, more than likely, display exceptionally good judgment in the selection of a husband.

The child born on September 22 generally has unlimited energy, and is frequently blessed with very retentive memory. Children born on this date often do exceptionally good work at school. This

CASTOR OIL AN IRRITANT

The common notion, cherished by some old time doctors as well as laity, that castor oil is soothing to inflammation and hence all right to give in any acute abdominal trouble, is utterly wrong. In fact castor oil is an irritant, produces its cathartic effect chiefly by irritation of the stomach and bowel, and is just as harmful or even dangerous in the presence of acute bellyache as is any laxative or cathartic.

An acute digestive disturbance, whether accompanied with colic, pain or just vague distress and tension must always be regarded as possible appendicitis, and therefore it is dangerous for the patient to take any kind of laxative or cathartic until the question of appendicitis is definitely settled. Administration of castor oil in the early stage of appendicitis increases the chance of rupture and general peritonitis ensuing, whether operation is done or not. Therefore the warning should be posted in the medicine cupboard: Laxatives are Bad Medicine for Bellyache.

Castor oil is good medicine for external use. Being somewhat soluble in alcohol a few drops of it will improve hair tonics or dandruff lotions which leave scalp or hair too dry.

A drop of castor oil in the eye will relieve the irritation caused by sand or by granular lids.

A mixture of equal parts of castor oil, olive oil and lanolin may be used with advantage by printers and other workers whose hands are much exposed to chemicals, solvents and harsh cleaning agents. Apply a few drops to skin of hands and arms before beginning work for the day, and again after cleaning up at the end of the day.

Although castor oil has probably done much more harm than good in the world, it has contributed much to the repugnance for medicine on the part of sick children and to the suspicion or fear of the doctor on the part of everybody. Of course there are ways to disguise the nauseous taste of castor oil and tricks of administering it so that a dose may be taken without breaking any commandments. But for the life of man I can't understand why any youngster who doesn't particularly care for castor oil on his pancakes or on his stomach should take any. Please put this in the medicine cupboard too.

Of course a sick doctor is a fool to try to doctor himself. If I were sick I'd submit to the care of a well doctor, and if he prescribed a beaker of castor oil and maybe a nice big dose of calomel and careful protection against drafts I'd take it all without argument or else I'd fire the doctor and call in an up-to-date man. For I suppose as long as oldwives' tales are told some doctors will continue to prescribe castor oil.

youngster's future seems to be one of great promise.

If a man and September 22 is your natal day, loyalty to family, friends and business associates is imperative if you expect to make a permanent success of your life. Scientific, historical research or exploratory work, as well as theatrical, financial, manufacturing or some literary activity may enable you to succeed.

Bulbs Easiest to Plant; Most Certain to Bloom

Of all garden subjects, the bulbs are probably the easiest to plant and the most certain to bloom. It is almost impossible to plant the modern bulbs without some kind of success when spring rolls around.

Because they are so obliging, however, does not mean that they should be planted without regard to their likes and dislikes. The tiny scilla bulbs should manifestly not be planted so deep as the huge narcissus bulb. When beginning operations, consult a chart of planting depths, or read carefully the directions on the package, making sure that bulbs of each type are planted about the same depth, so that they will appear simultaneously in the spring.

A good rule to follow when in doubt is to plant on the deep side. In other words less harm will be done from planting too deep, than too shallow. In the case of the imperial and candidum lilies, the converse is true, and these giant bulbs, which appear to want at least 6 inches, need but a scant 3 inches.

Tulips will burrow through 18 inches, but 5 to 6 inches is the proper planting depth. The crocus, snowdrop and scilla should be planted 2 to 3 inches below the soil. The lilies need the deepest planting. The candidums can go a full foot deep with good results. The distance apart is a matter of preference, although 5 inches should be the minimum.

Drainage is an important part of any bulb planting, and every precaution should be taken to avoid standing water, or over-soaked beds, which will cause rotting of the bulbs. In cases where doubt arises as to what will occur during wet days of early spring or when the soil is particularly heavy, raise the bed about 6 inches from the level of the garden.

Bulbs do not need a very rich soil, as they have considerable food stored up in themselves. An application of plant food will, however, help them to produce bigger flowers. Do not apply a barnyard manure, as they have a particular aversion to it.

Dramatic Society Formed at School Junior Play Group Being Used as Nucleus of New Organization

Appleton High school students are organizing a dramatic society under the direction of Miss Ruth McKennan, head of the speech department at the school. Opportunity for dramatic activities at the high school will be increased as soon as the stage in the auditorium is equipped.

Four instructors will cooperate to administer the various phases of the group's activities. Miss McKennan will supervise acting, directing, and makeup. Costuming and the construction of scenery will be directed by Miss Kathryn Fralish, speech instructor, and Harry Cameron, head of the manual arts department. Jack Burroughs, biology instructor, will have charge of switch board work.

Although over 200 students have signified a desire to join the group, membership in the acting, directing, and make-up division will be limited. Miss McKennan, said, and students will be selected by try-outs scheduled for this week. The junior play group of last year is serving as a nucleus for the organization.

To clean linoleum which has been cemented down use mild soap suds and warm, not hot water, and scrub quickly, so as not to loosen the cement. To keep linoleum looking new, frequently apply a coat of thin wax. This gives a seal which helps prevent stains.

Board Asks City For $125,000 to Operate Schools

Explain Regular Funds Diverted for Construction Purposes

A resolution requesting the city council to borrow $125,000 for the operation of public schools for the balance of the calendar year was approved by the board of education at Lincoln school last night. Regular school funds have been diverted into emergency construction funds, it was explained.

Action on a request for school facilities for use in the WPA recreational program for children and adults was deferred until more specific information is obtained by Hazel F. Bannister, local supervisor, on defrayment of expenses.

Seymour Gmeiner, president of the board, stated the use of rooms in various buildings would necessitate heating and lighting expense and janitor service. He also brought out that the school board may be held liable in case of injury to participants in the program.

Lists Requisites
Mrs. Bannister requested use of the Morgan school gymnasium and a permanent room for storage of equipment and arts and craft instruction; the Roosevelt and Wilson Junior High school gymnasiums; and the McClintock school grounds.

Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, informed the board there would be no rooms available in the Morgan school.

Langstadt Electric company was awarded a contract of $443.75 for the emergency lighting system for the new senior high school. The board decided to accept the bicycle parking rack at a cost of $439.

Announcement was made that the auditorium chairs and stage equipment will be purchased by the student activities fund.

onstrations in the main thoroughfares of the capital. They cried: "Long live the army!" "Long live Czechoslovakia!"

Thousands of persons crowded into the entrances of buildings and in windows of hotels and business establishments to cheer the marchers. Taxicabs bearing Czech army officers were applauded heartily by marchers and spectators.

The line of demonstrators grew longer with each block and the crowds in the streets increased rapidly.

The propaganda ministry's disclosure came after it had been announced officially that Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta would receive the British and French envoys this afternoon.

Reinforced Czechoslovak police today accused France and Great Britain of capitulating to Adolf Hitler's demands and disclosed they had ignored Russia's offer of military help to protect Czechoslovakia.

The foreign commissar, in a scathing renunciation of League of Nations powers, said Russia stood today to back up any collective action in defense of Czechoslovakia with arms and men.

In what he left unsaid, however, assembly delegates saw a statement that unless France fights for Czechoslovakia under the terms of the French-Czechoslovak agreement, Soviet Russia would do nothing to help Prague.

He accused Britain and France of avoiding a "problematical" war by day in return for a certain and large-scale war tomorrow.

Russia's spokesman told the League of Nations assembly that the price Britain and France were considering paying to prevent war over Czechoslovakia was "satisfying the appetites of insatiable aggressors by the destruction of League sanctions."

Wants League Action
He contended that the "League of Nations is strong enough to stop aggression by collective action," declaring that "aggressor states" still are weaker than a possible block of peaceful states.

"The policy of nonresistance to evil and of humoring the aggressor which we are being recommended to adopt by opponents of League sanctions," he warned "will have no other end but that of strengthening the forces of aggression."

"Then the moment may really arrive at which aggressors have grown so strong that the League of Nations, or what remains of it, will be unable to deal with them even should it desire to do so."

Litvinoff declared flatly: "Our war department is ready immediately to participate in conference with representatives of the French and Czechoslovak war departments in order to discuss measures appropriate to the moment."

He said this Russian stand was framed and sent to the Czechoslovak government two days ago and to France a few days before the league assembly began to deliberate on Sept. 12.

Treviso, Italy—(AP)—Premier Mussolini, in his fourth speech this week on the critical European situation, re-emphasized his demand that the solution of the crisis in Czechoslovakia not be limited to the Sudeten Germans but be "integral."

He advocated that the rights of the Hungarians, Slovaks, Polish, Rumanian and Rumanian minorities in Czechoslovakia also be satisfied.

"If Czechoslovakia is facing a situation which we may call delicate it is because it was—we say—having in mind that a solution has been reached—not merely Czechoslovakia but Czechoslovakia-Magyar-Polish-Ruthenian-Slovakia." He due asserted as the crowd roared with delight at his sally.

"I insist that since this problem has been faced we must settle it in integral fashion," Mussolini continued.

"At this moment the British prime minister, who took the politirecommendations for the next congress to help put the nation's transportation industry on a sound financial basis.

Some informed persons said the labor representatives felt they could not cooperate in the joint legislative program and fight the wage cut battle at the same time.

The carrier representatives were reported unwilling to revise their position on the wage cut until they had consulted their fellow operators.

Although neither side advanced any suggestions for the proposed legislative program, it was the opinion of some informed persons the group would study several proposals which the 1938 congress considered but did not adopt.

Mr. Roosevelt's conferees yesterday were George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association; Bert M. Jewell, head of the A. F. of L. Railway Employees' department; D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Carl Gray, vice chairman of the Union Pacific; Martin W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania, and Ernest E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway.

Government Spain to Withdraw Volunteers

Geneva—(AP)—Dr. Juan Negrin, premier of government Spain, announced today that his government had decided on the immediate total withdrawal of all foreign volunteers fighting with government armies.

Negrin asked the League of Nations to appoint an international committee which would go to Spain to verify complete withdrawal.

cal initiative is directing the ship of peace into port." It due made his Treviso speech as he neared the close of his tour of the Venetian provinces.

His mention of Czechoslovakia and a passing reference to the French brought prolonged jeers from the crowd.

London—(AP)—Usually well-informed sources said today that the British foreign office had learned that the Czechoslovak government had accepted the Anglo-French proposals for settling the crisis over the Sudeten German issue.

In informed quarters it was announced: "We are given to understand by our (British) legation that Prague has accepted the Anglo-French proposals, but no official notification of that fact has reached us yet."

These informants declined to elaborate on this statement but did not deny its implication that Czechoslovak acceptance of the peace plan calling for cession of the Sudeten regions to Germany was not yet certain.

Final O. K. Needed
The best explanation available in London of this apparent contradiction was that the Prague cabinet at its early morning session had decided on acceptance and so informed the British legation.

But acceptance could not be definite until it had been endorsed by a meeting of the party leaders forming the government coalition and of the Czechoslovak general staff.

In Prague Czechoslovak officials said the note replying to the Anglo-French plan to satisfy the demands of Adolf Hitler would be handed to the British and French ministers this afternoon.

Sources close to the government here said that the Anglo-French representations early this morning calling on the Prague government to modify its original polite rejection of the proposals did not go beyond "advice."

Amounts To Ultimatum
But in diplomatic circles there was agreement that these representations were of an extremely strong nature, amounting to a virtual ultimatum.

Meanwhile there were disquieting reports of possible internal trouble in Czechoslovakia if President Eduard Benes and Premier Milan Hodza capitulate to the international pressure upon them.

Already there are rumors that the general staff would be so enraged by surrender as to attempt to establish a military dictatorship.

Propose Issue of Bonds to Finance County Building

Board Would Raise $190,000 Under Plan if PWA Aid Is Granted

Outagamie county board members this morning heard a resolution for a $190,000 bond issue to raise funds for a new $450,000 courthouse provided a PWA grant of 45 per cent is made by the federal government.

Following a discussion of the resolution and several talks on the need for a new building the supervisors adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon to permit them to inspect the building. Action on the resolution will be taken this afternoon.

The proposed resolution stated that the county now has $37,500 in the building fund which with a $202,500 government grant and the bond issue totals $450,000, the estimated cost of the building. It was stated that the chance of securing a PWA grant, for which the county has made application, is small.

Supervisor John Bottensek, Dale, opposed adoption of the resolution after Supervisor Mike Jacobs, Appleton, moved for its adoption. Bottensek said that this is not the time to build with "wartime prices prevailing."

The condition of the present courthouse was discussed by Supervisor Jacobs. He stated that the roof is badly in need of repair, that the heating system might need major repairs in the near future and that the building, without fire escapes is a fire trap.

Fair and Warmer Weather Expected

Sun Shines in Appleton And Vicinity for 2nd Successive Day

Believe it or not, the sun has shone for two successive days in Appleton and vicinity and the weather man has predicted fair weather tonight and Thursday in continuance of the respite from the recent siege of rain. Warmer temperatures are expected tonight and Thursday.

Unseasonal furnace fires which had been kept going in many homes during the damp, cold weather were allowed to go out yesterday as the mercury nudged its way up to 62 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The minimum temperature for the 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning was 43 degrees at 6 o'clock this morning, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The mercury had climbed back to 62 degrees at noon today, according to the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building.

Cessation of the heavy rains has forestalled the threat of serious flood damage in the surrounding area and the high water is slowly receding to the normal boundaries of rivers and lakes.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation yesterday were at Phoenix with 100 degrees and Park Falls, Wis., with 34 degrees, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Trailer Traveler Visits New London on East Coast

BY CARL W. MASON
New London, Conn.—Old "Lunnon town" in England has many namesakes scattered over the world and tonight we, who are residents of the Wisconsin city astride the Waupaca-Outagamie line, are camped in the rocky city park overlooking the Thames river in the community from which New London, Wis., derives its name. Both cities seem to make about the same strenuous bid for trailer tourists, which is represented by a large round O.

It is a curious bit of history, the manner in which New London, Wis., was named. In the very earliest days the place was known simply as "the mouth of the Embarras." Then Lucius Taft came from Ohio with a handful of other pioneers and he was the man who laid out the city and really gave it its start. Thereafter for some time it was called Taft's Landing. Finally the citizens, growing ambitious, decided to adopt some more suitable and euphonious appellation for their growing community and held a meeting to decide the momentous question.

Taft, Tafton Park and other names properly recognizing the place of Lucius Taft in the city's history were proposed. But the Ethiopian in the cordwood there at that time was a Methodist preacher from Appleton named the Rev. Reeder Smith who seemed to have more a penchant for real estate development than for exclusive sign or device. He had acquired some land on the South Side in New London and had platted it into lots and streets. Mr. Smith was a shrewd politician. He manipulated the situation so that the name New London was adopted as he wished to honor his own father who was a native of this Connecticut city. Thus a man who had nothing to do with New London sign or device was given recognition while the worthy founder of the city was passed by. And even the little North Water street park that was belatedly named Taft Park was renamed with the name Taft.

Hustling Seaport
This Connecticut New London is a fine hustling seaport of about 30,000 population according to the maps, nearer 40,000 say patriotic citizens.

At Hyannis, Mass., I enjoyed a visit with Donald Trayser, son of Mrs. Lulu Trayser of New London, Wis., who is editor of The Hyannis Patriot and also acting clerk of court of Barnstable county. Previously he was a regular county official for two years. The Trayser's are expecting a visit this fall from his aunt, Miss Marie Mayberry, and Miss Fay Parks of New London, Wis.

One commodity that is cheap in New England, particularly Massachusetts and Rhode Island, is gasoline. I see many signs of "8 for $1" and I have filled up several times with regular gas at seven gallons for $1. I bought ethyl in Rhode Island for 17c a gallon. Low state taxes are one reason for this low price.

The fall is a good time to visit the Cape and south New England coast region. Cape residents assured me the mercury seldom goes lower than 10 above zero in winter and that there is little snow, the falls soon melting. October even is a favorable month for visiting the Cape altho the regular season ends by mid-September. I

The station building will be 15 by 20 feet and the greasing building will be 28 feet long and 26 feet wide. Cost of the station is estimated at $4,400. ## Lawrence College Is Given Seven Pictures From Ryerson Collection

Lawrence college has been further aided in its plan of bringing fine art to its students and the community by the gift of several pictures from the personal collection of Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson. It was announced at the matriculation day exercises this morning that Thomas A. Barrows, president of the Art Institute of Chicago until his death in 1932, and Mrs. Ryerson assembled their valuable collection from all parts of the world and having no children, left the bulk of their fortunes and of their art objects to three Chicago institutions with whom they had been closely associated; namely, the University of Chicago, the art institute, and the field museum. Mr. Ryerson was president of the board of trustees of the university for 30 years and first vice president of the field museum for 38 years. Philanthropic and interested in education the couple became perhaps the greatest benefactors of the institute.

Mrs. Ryerson, the survivor, came to realize that many of the items which she and her husband had collected might duplicate similar, or almost similar, items already held by these institutions. Therefore, in a will drawn up not many weeks before her death, she put in an unusual provision, calling for the trustees of the state to distribute the paintings, water colors, etchings, and other objects to such institutions as they might select. The trustees, convinced that they wanted these prized objects placed where they would be most cherished, and where they would afford the greatest pleasure to persons capable of enjoying the sight of them, have selected Lawrence college as such an institution.

Seven Pictures
The seven pictures in the gift have been added to the collection of the college. They are three paintings, "In the Garden," by W. P. Henderson; "Quays of Paris," by S. Lepine; and "Landscape," by Mozzanovich; a pastel, "Woman Singing," by T. W. Dewing; and three water colors, "Lae d'Ancecy," "Sallanches," by P. Signac, and "Houses," by M. de Vlammick.

In accepting the gift President Barrows acknowledged the honor done the college by the trustees in selecting Lawrence as an institution worthy of receiving these fine works of art. Lawrence has been extremely active in bringing art to its students directly, having originated the picture rental service which enables students to live with fine paintings and etchings and reproductions throughout the school year with a very small charge. The college also brings outstanding exhibits to the campus from time to time.

The pictures contained in this report will be exhibited in the bute the paintings, water colors, etchings, and other objects to such

Decline in Lumber Industry Causes High Relief Costs in 'Problem Area'

Editor's Note: In a series of articles beginning today, the Appleton Post-Crescent's state capital correspondent presents some of the most important material gathered by a special tri-state committee of experts which is exploring the possibilities of recommending a recovery program for the vast cut-over areas of northern Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan to congress, President Roosevelt and the state legislatures of the three states.

The articles will review the findings of the Wisconsin subject-matter committee, reports which will be coordinated with the results of similar studies in Minnesota and Michigan in a single volume. Because the dependence of large numbers of residents in the near-bankrupt swath of northern Wisconsin counties on state relief and social security aids, the cut-over area problem is of significance to residents and taxpayers throughout the state.

The first article, presented herewith, reviews the cut-over area problem as it is visualized by Wisconsin experts on the tri-state committee, headed by M. W. Torkelson of the Wisconsin state planning board.

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Madison—Twenty-six Wisconsin counties, nineteen in the northern cut-over area and seven partly or wholly within the central sand area of the state, comprise the "problem area" with which the Wisconsin section of the tri-state committee is concerned.

Originally covered with timber, as was practically the whole state in early days, the area now has only about 10 per cent of its acreage in merchantable forest. The small amount, and largely submarginal nature of forest operations in the area, combined with the small remaining stand of merchantable timber and the poor market for timber in the last decade, have made this area one with serious unemployment and relief problems, and a drain on the more prosperous sections of the state.

Poor Financial Rating
This state of affairs is reflected, not only in an exceptionally high percentage of the population depending on government subsidies for support, but also in the financial status of local governments, driven to the wall by excessive demands for relief, excessive rates of tax delinquency, and a steadily shrinking tax base. Thus today 20 of the counties in this problem area are among the 25 state counties having the poorest financial rating in the state.

The serious unemployment and relief problems in the cut-over section have arisen primarily because of the decline in the lumber industry and the failure of agriculture or other industries to provide sufficient alternative employment and income.

It has been estimated, by competent experts, that of the original 215 billion board feet of timber in Wisconsin, only about 11 billion are left. Thus can the plight of the northern counties who depend almost entirely for their public and private income on the timber industry be understood.

Lumber Era
The lumber era in Wisconsin was well started in 1840. By 1870 about one billion board feet of lumber were being harvested annually. This increased rapidly to a peak in 1892 when four billion feet were produced. From this peak the output declined, to 2 billion in 1910, one billion in 1920, and six tenths of a billion in 1930. Since 1930 production has declined still more, and in the five years prior to 1931, 16 large sawmills closed, while others were accepting the prospect of closing within the next 15 years. The cutting of wood pulp has offset to some extent the decline in the timber output in recent decades, but still falls far short of the volume produced at the beginning of the century.

And here is a nub of a large part of the problem as one of Wisconsin's special research committees noted: "With the decadence of the lumber industry many former employees turned from this industry where there appeared to be no hope for further employment or income to farming where at least shelter and some subsistence might be obtained. Unfortunately, a large proportion of the land so occupied, both in the northern and southern portions of the area, is not suited to agriculture. Moreover, many of the families had no training or aptitude for farming so that the combination resulted in low standards of living."

Caused Serious Problems
Thus the depletion of the timber resources caused serious unemployment and relief problems, economic settlement of rural areas, and reduced public revenues in a way to make impossible the local handling of these new and serious problems. With the expropriation of the tax base previously available in the timber industry, remaining property did not produce enough public revenue for even a minimum of needed public service. So little value is today placed on much of the cut-over land as a source of future forest revenue that large proportions of it are being allowed to revert to the counties in lieu of tax payments.

Another major source of unemployment and relief and local government bankruptcy, in addition to the depletion of timber resources and agricultural settlement on poor lands, has been the curtailment of iron mining and shipping operations in the northern border of the area and the Lake Superior ports.

As an indication of the effect of the decline of shipping, itself directly caused by the decline of the mines and the lumber camps, it may be noted that Superior and Ashland, the two chief Lake Superior ports, with only two cities in the state with over 5,000 population which declined in population between 1920 and 1930.

As with the forest workers who lost their jobs, many of these mine and transport workers have also gone back to the land to eke out a living. Settling on poor land and not being accustomed to farming, many have continued to depend on relief as their major source of income. Yet with a stake in their homes and their property, even though there is little prospect of adequate income from either their farms or outside work in the future, these families remain, providing a burden on the local governments which they are each year less able to meet.

Hitler Is Interested in Territory, Not Sudetens

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—The practical truth of Hitler's invasion of Czechoslovakia, which began three years ago, is this:—Hitler is not interested in the Sudeten Germans but in the territory which they inhabit. If his heart were wrung by any sufferings of expatriated and captive Germans his first concern would be the tortured captives in that part of old Austria which now lies in northern Italy. These people have suffered real persecution.

If Hitler's interest were humane and not territorial he would have encouraged the Sudetens to leave Czechoslovakia and make their homes in Germany. Such a mass emigration would involve some loss through the forced sale of possessions, but the loss would not be comparable to that suffered by the minorities in the Reich and who are forced to leave all their possessions behind when they find opportunity to flee. In the matter of the persecution of minorities Hitler has nothing to learn. He wrote the book.

Konrad Henlein was assigned to promote treason in Czechoslovakia and has done a thorough, practical, cold-blooded job. He made frequent trips into Germany to report progress and receive further instructions. And the German propaganda department, by a clumsy error, sent a memorandum to all the foreign press correspondents at the Olympic games at Garmisch-Partenkirchen in the winter of 1936 urging them to take photographs of Henlein sitting with Hitler and otherwise to "make propaganda" for the program of treason against a land whose athletes at that very moment were performing on the ice before Hitler and their traitor fellow-countryman.

This memorandum was intended only for German correspondents, but a dumkopt in the press department muffed his instructions and called upon Americans and others in the press gallery to abet a treacherous conspiracy, promoted under the white banner of international sport. Hitler and Henlein even then were aiming guns at the hearts of the Olympic boys and girls from Czechoslovakia. A Henlein in Germany would get short shrift. In any minority in Germany had undertaken to do as Henlein has done in Czechoslovakia Hitler would have slaughtered both leaders and followers without pretense.

of a trial. Czechoslovakia, however, patiently endured Henlein's backstabbing. Hitler has filled graves and torture camps with minorities whose dissent was merely passive. Henlein, on the other hand, has distributed weapons and drilled troops to wait a day when Hitler would order them to betray their country to him.

The Sudetens never have been persecuted in the Hitlerian sense of the word, and, moreover, if the persecution of members of his blood were Hitler's trouble, he would have gone to the rescue of the Austrians in Italy long before this. But, for the time being at least, they have been yielded to their captors under Hitler's "perpetual promise" to Mussolini.

It is purely a business arrangement. He has sold those "blood brothers" into slavery for a price. The Germans organized and carried out the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss in Austria, but met unexpected resistance and backed off to drench the country with propaganda by air and press until finally the Austrians were too weak to resist. Dr. Schuschnigg, the head of the legal Austrian government, is now a prisoner, awaiting the constitution of a "special court." This court will find him guilty of treason against the invader—a new crime.

Hitler Likes Some Polish Areas as Well
The Nazis are spreading out to absorb and dominate Europe toward the east, and the Sudeten conquest simply happens to be the next step in the plan. There are areas in Poland with an equal demand on Hitler's humane sympathies. But, taking things in order as they come, he is engaged now in conquering a strong natural line of military defense and seizing the rich territory just beyond it by indirect methods.

The Sudeten area never was a part of Germany and contains many inhabitants whose fate as a minority in Hitler's hands has been written in blood on every page of Nazi history. This same fate could well await American minorities in every area containing a settlement of Nazis, including, no doubt, sections of New York City, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Hoboken.

Reds, Truckers In Scoreless Tie

Appleton Team Comes Closest to Scoring; on 12-Yard Line Once

CLINTONVILLE -- Last night the Clintonville FWD Truckers and the Appleton Reds battled to a 0 to 0 tie in the Clintonville athletic park. Both teams had comparatively strong lines with the edge going to the Truckers who ripped through for numerous gains but couldn't push the pigskin over the goal. The Truckers had a squad of about 30 men many of them former high school stars. Several were from Shawano and included Wagner, Guller, Meifert, and Schroeder. Wagner was about the best back to play around these parts for years and last night he was the mainstay of the Truckers doing most of the kicking and gaining considerable yardage through the line.

Ozzie Osiewalski, former Menasha High star, was the cog which kept the Reds in the ball game doing the punting, passing and a good share of the running.

Penalties were frequent and the Reds had many called on them because of offside. Fumbles came almost as often as penalties but most of the time they were recovered by the fumbleers. The field wasn't muddy.

Neither team really got close enough to the goal line to draw blood but at the end of the first quarter the Reds intercepted a Truckers pass and got it as far as the 12-yard line. They were stopped and an attempted field goal failed. In the second quarter the Reds also came close enough to score but again were held and another field goal failed. The Truckers, while they outplayed the Reds, never got close enough to even attempt a field goal and did most of their rushing around the 50-yard line.

The last play of the game very nearly was a touchdown for the Reds when Osiewalski intercepted a pass and got as far as the 20-yard stripe before he was knocked out of bounds by a horde of Truckers players.

The lineup:

Appleton	Clintonville
Miller	LE
Schroeder	LT
Resch	LG
C. Brauch	C
D. Green	RG
B. Green	RT
C. Brauch	RE
Sanders	QB
Osiewalski	LH
Begner	RH
Kilgus	FB
Replacements—Appleton: Haas, Brandt, Agert, Tracy, Palmback, Reider, Van Ryzin, Clintonville: Miller, Lutzewitz, Du Fran, DeCoursey, Kruse, Thorpe, Pernot, Hintz, Dohm.

Green Bay West Tips New London
Wildcats Give Lars Thune 39 to 0 Win in First Contest

Green Bay -- Green Bay West's new football coach, Leonard (Lars) Thune, made his official debut as the Wildcats opened their prep football camp by smothering New London, 39 to 0, in a non-conference game here yesterday afternoon.

Royal Dessart's touchdown put the Wildcats in front in the first quarter. Floyd Le Mere booted the point. Handicapped by faulty blocking and poor timing, New London was prevented from getting again in the next chapter, when Kluchski crossed the tape on an end run.

The third ended as Ronnie Motiff, speedy halfback, scored Green Bay's third touchdown. Motiff repeated again when he tore through guard from the visitor's 6-yard stripe. Fumbling their punt, New London's efforts were again halted on their 5-yard line. The freight on the third down and went over Kluchski in the next chapter, when Kluchski crossed the tape on an end run.

With four minutes remaining, thirty passed from the opponent's 31 to Borremans, who skirted end unmolested to the goal line.

Wood, Budge Expected To Go Into Action Today
Forest Hills, N. Y. -- A record for consecutive workouts by rain was set today as the steady downpour forced the fifth straight postponement of the national tennis championships, now slated in the semi-finals.

Forest Hills, N. Y. -- If rain doesn't interfere, Sidney Wood will clash this afternoon against Donald Budge in the semi-finals of the national singles tennis championship.

It may be the best tennis match the tournament has ever seen and then again it may be pretty awful. Either way it is the most interesting match of the day, outshining the other men's semi-final, Gene Mako versus Jack Bromwich, and the lone women's fray Alice Marble against Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fry.

Rain has forced postponement of the semi-finals since last Saturday.

Dutchmen Resume Workouts Tonight

Little Chute Team to Meet Appleton Reds Next Sunday

Little Chute -- The Little Chute Flying Dutchman football team will get back into the training routine tonight after being idle for a week and will prepare for Sunday's game with Appleton Reds at Appleton. Last Sunday's scheduled opener with Fond du Lac at Little Chute was rained out. Blocking and tackling practice is scheduled tonight.

Two more games have been scheduled for the Dutchmen and several night games are planned at the Kimberly field under lights. The schedule: Sept. 25--At Appleton. Oct. 2--Clintonville here. Oct. 9--Appleton Reds here. Oct. 16--At Clintonville (Wednesday night). Oct. 22--At Merrill. (Night). Oct. 30--Kaukauna here. Nov. 6--Green Bay here.

SHARE MEDAL HONORS IN WOMEN'S GOLF Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page (left), of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Dorothy Traugott, of San Francisco, had friendly smiles for each other after dividing medal honors in the qualifying round of the 42nd National Women's Golf championship in Chicago. Battling rain, cold and high winds, both scored 80.

Crying Towel Definitely "Out" Around Marquette

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of stories written for the Associated Press by football coaches of Wisconsin Universities and colleges, outlining their plans and prospects for the year.)

BY PADDY DRISCOLL
Marquette University Football Coach

(Written for the Associated Press)
MILWAUKEE -- (P) -- Crying towels, soap sponges and water buckets are strictly in the discard at Marquette university this fall. We're leading with our chains, but will give them all a battle!

Frankly, we feel that the Golden Avalanche will be definitely improved over our 1937 outfit which lost six games while winning from Ripon, South Dakota and Duquesne. But there is not a single so-called "set-up" on the 1938 schedule, so it remains to be seen whether our improvement can take us out of red ink.

That schedule is a terror, and the coming campaign should give the fans plenty to talk about no matter which way the wind blows in our games. After opening with Wisconsin at Madison and Southern Methodist at Soldier Field in Chicago, our Hilltoppers come home for consecutive games with Kansas State, Texas Christian, Iowa State and Michigan State. Then we will wind up on the road in battles with Arizona at Tucson and Texas Tech at Lubbock. Not even an optimistic can see a day of rest in that layout.

Has 13 Lettermen
Marquette will probably build around 13 lettermen, just about one for every position, with the five returning backfield veterans as the big question mark. All of them will be juniors and we hope that they will have profited by their sophomore experience. They are Reggie Coldagelli, Eveleth, Minn., Rush Niles, Shawano, and Harry Lysenauer, Johnny Maltch and Bill Stalfeld, Milwaukee.

Lettermen back for line duty will include three seniors--Herb Anderson, St. Paul, Minn., and Ed Niemi, Ironwood, Mich., center, and Carl Siefert, Milwaukee, tackle; and five juniors, Bill Burke, Chicago, end; Ray Buster, Watertown, tackle; Tom Woods, Chicago, guard, and Alfons Beitzinger and Dave Braden, Milwaukee, guards.

Spring practice indicated that these old-timers will really have to "put out" under the pressure of sophomore competition. This fall, we'll have about 25 new boys on our relatively small squad of 32 this season and they're the ones who will make or break our team. These youngsters have shown considerable promise, but our greatest worry is that they will be too green to bite into the type of schedule which we are to face.

Ends May Star
Marquette fans may hark back to the days of Dilweg, Hartley and other immortals when it comes to end play this fall. If we were as well fortified at other positions as we probably will be on the wings, our worries would be over. In addition to the veterans, Burke and Anderson, we will have such promising sophomore endmen as Gil Thompson, Kenosha; Don Vosberg, Dubuque, Ia.; Mill Dussault, West Allis; Bob Sleske, Milwaukee, and others.

Tackles rally present a problem, and I imagine we will have to do some transposing to build up those two positions. Ben Owens, Chicago, and Len Kramp, Springfield, Ill., appear to be outstanding among the new tackles. Novice guards like Bob Kemnitz, Green Bay; Ted Tunis, Chicago, and Jim Bridges, Gary, Ind., belong in the nifty class. Backs? Well, we'll have to juggle but may be able to get something formidable from a sophomore outlay that includes Jack Belser, Buffalo, N. Y.; Paul Foltik, Cudahy; Art Haug, Wauwatosa; Bill Phillips, Spring Valley, Ill.; Bill Rein, Burlington, Wis.; Steve Sesskowski and Norm Woods, Chicago; La Vern Wagner, Dubuque, Ia., and Dick Bida, Milwaukee, none of them very big, however.

Principal holdovers who did not earn letters last fall include Frank Austin, Little Chute, and Del Bider, Mauston, backs; Roy Hoel, Spring Prairie, guard, and Charles Hooper, Milwaukee, guard and tackle. We have pared down and, as previously indicated, will rely heavily on sophomores.

The complete schedule follows: Oct. 1--Wisconsin at Madison; Oct. 7 (night)--Southern Methodist at Soldier Field, Chicago; Oct. 14 (night)--Kansas State in Milwaukee; Oct. 22 (Parent's day)--Texas Christian in Milwaukee; Oct. 29--Iowa State in Milwaukee; Nov. 5--Open; Nov. 12 (Homecoming)--Michigan State in Milwaukee; Nov. 19--Arizona at Tucson; Nov. 26--Texas Tech at Lubbock.

Nationally Known Pro Net Players at Menasha Sunday

VINCENT Richards, who leads a group of professional tennis players into Menasha and Menasha Sunday for exhibitions on the Doty courts, won his first tennis tournament in 1917 and his last in 1937 when he paired with George Lott and they copped the national professional doubles title.

Richards has spent his life in tennis. He entered his first tournament in 1915 and since then has traveled over 200,000 miles, visited five continents, and won 30 titles. He was ranked in the first five players in the world for seven years, and No. 2 in the United States singles for many years.

Richards will show with Backley Bell, George Lott and Bruce Barnes in his exhibitions at Neenah. A rather nominal admission is being charged to give everyone, from the tennis hopeful in the grade schools to veteran followers of the sport, a chance to see the matches.

Here's Richards' titles: National boys' outdoor singles championship, 1917, 1918. National junior outdoor singles championship, 1919, 1920, 1921. National junior doubles championship, with Harold Taylor, 1918. National junior indoor doubles, paired with Frank Anderson, 1919. National indoor singles championship, 1918, 1919, 1920. National junior indoor doubles, paired with P. A. McHugh, 1920. National clay court doubles, paired with Ronald Roberts, 1920. National men's indoor singles, 1919, 1923, 1924. National doubles, paired with William T. Tilden, 1918, 1921, 1922. National professional doubles championship, paired with George Lott, 1937.

SEYMOUR KIWANIS CLUB last evening feted the city's baseball club which made a splendid race in the Northern State league this season, and missed being second round champions only because of a sixth inning that was all bad.

We were among those present having been invited by Ted Nickodem who also suggested we bring Joe Shields of Appleton High school along to make a talk of some kind or another. But Joe couldn't make it so we had to pinch hit for him and because he's a has been ball player it wasn't much of a job. But whether we got a hit like Arnie Kelly usually does or whether we went down swinging like Cockey Hammen, we'll never know. But like Cockey, we at least tried.

All the members of the squad were present except Eddie Raasch, catcher, and Mrs. Bill Row. It really was odd to have a baseball shindig without Mrs. Row. C. A. Van Vuren, president of the baseball association and editor of the Seymour Press, introduced the players and after we heard what he had to say about each we figured that nothing we had said in the past or might say in the future, could get them angry. Of course, he pays them, perhaps, and so they have to take it.

But everything was in fun and after we added a few words and Manager Bill Row got in a few more the meeting adjourned and then the baseball players gathered around the table and played and re-played the season's games and got off a lot more cracks at each other and hoped they'd all be together again next season.

The officers and directors of the baseball association also came in for a share of the evening's praises. They are Grover Falck, C. A. Van Vuren, Marvin Babbitt, P. A. Nickodem, Stanley Gavronski, Marion Shepherd, Alvin Piehl, Frank Lubinski and Joe Adamski. Babbitt, who is president of the Kiwanis club, presided at the meeting and Ted Hawkins led the singing.

Just as we pulled out of Seymour we picked up a couple New London High school youths hitch-hiking back home from Green Bay West where they had watched the Bulldogs bow to West's Wildcats. We don't often pick any one up but they looked rather lonely out there on the road. They decided to come through to Appleton in hopes of getting home faster than on 54 which hasn't much traffic come 2, 10 o'clock at night.

And then we went to the waiting wall. Never heard of it? Well, 'twas up at Charlie Ponds where the coaches in this section had gathered to weep and tell how poor their grid and basketball prospects were and how bad everything in general was going.

As we arrived the mentors greeted us with a pretty fair Bronx cheer but were their faces ever red when four members of the Packers squad and Red Smith followed right behind us. (They were afraid the Packers would think the booing was over that defeat last Sunday.)

But after introductions were passed around everything was fine again. The Packers, incidentally, were Baby Ray, and is that guy big, and Bill Lee, ditto, and Cecil Isbell and Don Hutson who were the good lookers. The gridders had been at Kaukauna talking to the high school squad there and Red had dragged them over here. They were all ready to go home after a time but the evening's lunch was brought on Hutson, who said he wanted to go early to get to bed, wanted to remain around so he might eat again after the first round had settled.

And then back to the office until 4 o'clock and help the lads wrestle with the election.

Boys Run Like Sailors, Stuhldreher Comments After Tuesday's Drill

American League Will Stage First Playoff Tonight

Now that the old hay maker has come back to Appleton after an absence of some three weeks, the American Softball league will stage the first game of the championship series between the Woolen Mills and the Coated Paper company. It is scheduled for 5 o'clock at the Roosevelt diamond tonight.

Ole Lorenz will take the mound for the Woolens, first round winners, and Bob Eggert will show for the Coated. The second game is scheduled for Friday evening.

Aside from flashes of brilliant passing and some "mouse-trap" plays over defensive ground, the Card offensive bogged down.

Schmittz Gets Score
Schmittz' passing was excellent considering the fact that he received little or no protection. His passing figured in each of the four touchdowns scored. A 30-yard pass from Schmittz to Bellin put the ball in Midfield. On successive plays, Weiss, Schmittz, then Weiss again, pounded the reserve line for 10 yards a crack. Schmittz skirted left end for the touchdown.

The varsity immediately came back and Schmittz heaved a 35 yard aerial to Fred Gage, varsity soph quarterback, who outlegged the rest of the field to a marker.

The offense then stalled for several plays, before Roy Bellin took over the passing role from right half and tossed one 20 yards to Schmittz. Weiss circled left end for 25. Schmittz, then Weiss again, and Weiss cracked over center for the third touchdown.

Several attempted passes were smothered as the varsity came back again. Schmittz got a 25 yard pass to Weiss. The reserves stiffened and stymied the varsity offensive for 15 plays before the defensive left guard was mousetrapped and Schmittz pivoted through the hole for 20 yards. Weiss went over left tackle to score.

The varsity lined up as follows: Gordon, Gile, LE; Eck, EK, LT; Carl Faust, LG; Jack Murray, C; John O'Brien, RG; Gore, Brodhaug, RT; Frank Milaue, RE; Fred Gage, C; Bill Schmittz, LH; Roy Bellin, RH; Howie Weiss, F; Gile, Faust, Milaue and Gage are sophomores, the rest are lettermen.

The defensive team had Jim Flanagan at left end. Flanagan was shifted to end today to strengthen the wing position which was weakened yesterday when Jim Dean was shifted to tackle. Flanagan was paired with Poljes Elliott and Schueneman were the tackles. Heinz and Polasky the guards and Mat Christman center. Harry Knickelbine was at quarterback with Bob Stark and Ken Bellie at the halfbacks, and Ker Sauter at fullback.

This was the last day of double drills. But one practice drill will be permitted after school opens Wednesday.

Anxiety is felt about Al Lorenz, Chicago sophomore end candidate. Lorenz was excused from practice yesterday in order that he might study for a correspondence examination to be given Saturday.

Cards, Packers To Play Sunday

Pro League Teams Will Show on State Fair Park Gridiron

GREEN BAY—The Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers will revive their 18-year grid-iron feud Sunday afternoon at the Wisconsin State fair park in Milwaukee. The kickoff is at 2 p. m.

The Cards and Bays are even up in the National Football league percentage table. The Cardinals lost to the Chicago Bears 16 to 13 but nosed out the Cleveland Rams 7 to 6. The Packers slapped down the Clevelanders 27 to 16 but were thrown for a 2 to 0 loss by the Bears.

Coach Milan Creighton of the Cardinals has a first class aggregation on the field. Aside from Grosvenor, stellar back, the Chicagoans have all their 1937 top-notchers back in uniform besides a number of new gridgers who in early season games have shown a lot of class.

Many Recruits
Listed among the recruits who have made the grade are: Sam Agee, fullback from Vanderbilt; Ed Cherry, Hardin-Simmons halfback; Phil Dougherty, Santa Clara center; Elwyn Dunstan, Portland tackle; Frank Patrick, Pittsburgh fullback; Milton Popovich, Montana halfback; Jack Robbins and Dwight Sloan, triple threat stars from Arkansas.

The Packers came out of the Bear game in pretty good shape and Coach E. L. Lambeau will have all his regulars on hand to "shoot the works" against the Cardinals. Among the new players who will see lots of action in the game at Milwaukee are: Cecil Isbell, Purdue; Andy Uram, Minnesota; Johnny Howell, Nebraska; Dick Weisgerber, Willamette, a quartet of fancy stepping ball carriers.

The seating capacity at the State fair park has been enlarged this fall and the Packer management is looking forward to capacity crowd as the advance ticket sale for Sunday's game has been well above par due to the demand for seats from southern Wisconsin cities.

FALL FLY-FISHING FOR BATTING BASS

By O. Warren Smith

SNAPPY September is one of the sportiest months for fly-fishing bass. Just before those fierce equinoctial storms we sometimes have about the hottest days of the year. Maybe they warm up the bronze-backs for fast action when the first frost chills the northern waters. I haven't found the answer as to why bass fight more viciously in September than in June, but I do know that in my case it is true.

Bass in the fall are not so inclined to moodiness, they take a lure more certainly, and above all they want a better battle. Time and again in September and early October I have hooked and released the limit of bass in less than two hours. A pair of medium sized bronze-backs is enough for me to take home. It isn't the fish, it's the fishing, and how good fishing is in the fall.

Tackle To Take
I am not going to talk much about tackle, it isn't the tackle, it's what you do with it. I want a nine or nine and a half foot rod that weighs between six and six and a half ounces, a fly reel, a tapered line to match the balance of such a rod, a six foot top leader, and a fly. That fly is important. It is going to be at the business end to tempt the bass.

While not recommending any particular fly or flies, I prefer some of the more modern types, those sprawly, scraggly patterns. As to colors, I like dark browns, sometimes with a bit of red and black. Color is not so important. More depends upon our understanding of the game. Still and all, give me brown!

Lake Fishing Is The Best
I am thinking particularly of lake fishing, for that is better than stream fishing in the autumn. Evening is better than morning. From the time the sun hits the tree-tops until as long as you can see, sometimes when you can't see, you will find the best sport of the day.

My point about knowing your lake is one of the secrets of success. Bass don't just feed anywhere. They dine where there is food. Among the lily pads is always a good spot, any weed bed is good as far as that goes, for around and in weed beds insects and larvae gather. Along the shores where the water is deep enough and food is plentiful is also recommended.

Watch For Rises
You can spot the bass hang-out by watching the rise of fish. When you strike feeding fish take it easy. Don't cast too much. Don't disturb the water. One fly, placed in the proper spot, is worth a hundred just flapping around.

If the first impact of your fly with the water doesn't result in a rise let the fly sink slightly. Next, retrieve with tantalizing little jerks. There are times when the bronze-back likes to have a fly sink down to tempt him, taking a lure, although never lazy in fighting, once he is hooked. September has something for you!

This formation helps to keep defense balanced or from shifting because of equal running strength in both directions, gives a lot of deception, pulls interferences from good spots, affords quick punch through middle, allows four men down the field on passes and three linemen can pull ahead of reverses.

Boston Red Sox Rally Twice and Trip St. Louis

Strengthen Hold on Second Place; Foxx Gets Two Homers

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Two big seven-run innings gave the Boston Red Sox a double victory over the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 12 to 8 and 7 to 2, and strengthened their hold on second place in the American league.

Jimmy Foxx clouted his forty-sixth homer of the season in the sixth inning of the second game and hit a triple in his second time at bat that inning.

The opener was a seesaw battle until the ninth, when the Bostonians overcame a four run deficit and added three spares.

Still restless and uneasy in second after Cleveland's victory over Washington, they counted seven times in the sixth inning of the nightcap. It was called at the end of the eighth because of darkness.

Every Home Is Fortress in Holy Land As Arab Terrorists Roam Countryside

James A. Mills, famed AP columnist, reports that the Palestine situation is being made, in the following story he depicts the drama and terror of the Holy Land.

By JAMES A. MILLS
Jerusalem—(AP)—Palestine today resembles a country under siege.

In the streets and byways once trod by Moslems, Christians and Mohammedans, squads of grim-looking soldiers and policemen with rifles and bayonets patrol the city where three great religions of the world have their most sacred shrines. The Church of the Holy Sepulchre, where Christ is reputed to be buried; the Mosque of Omar, where, according to legend, Mohammed ascended to heaven; and the famous "Wailing Wall," site of Solomon's temple, are all carefully guarded, day and night, by armed men.

More than two years of outbreaks have alienated the different religious communities and retarded the development of the country, some observers say, at least 20 years. Since July 5 about 1,125 have died by violence, with more than 3,500 wounded.

In spite of the best efforts of the British and local authorities to keep order, the Holy Land is still the daily scene of bombings, shootings, land-mine explosions, hold-ups and general terror. The recent conciliatory statements of Malcolm MacDonald, secretary of state for colonies, and of Sir Harold MacMichael, British High Commissioner in Palestine, have only brought fresh outbreaks of violence.

"Minute Men" Appear
The prestige of the mandatory power, Great Britain, it is believed here, has suffered severely among the Jewish, Christian and Arab communities as a result of the growing power of the Arab insurgents.

Jewish colonies and settlements, which dot the land, remind American visitors of medieval times, when every man's home was a fortress. Barbed wire barriers, pillboxes, concrete bunkers, stone walls, all manned by Jewish "minute men," many of them American-born, project the Jewish settlements from the Arabs. Even the Jewish women, clinging to their "Promised Land" with tenacity, have taken up arms.

Encouraged by and envious of the grant of freedom to the Arabs of Egypt, Iraq and Syria, the Arabs of Palestine, numbering nearly one million, are demanding independent nationhood from their British rulers. The Jews, on the other hand, who number about half a million, most of them emigrants from Poland, Russia, Germany, Rumania and other countries, wish to preserve their "National Home" in Palestine, which was promised them under the wartime Balfour Declaration. The Arabs wish to curb further Jewish immigration into Palestine, fearing the Hebrews ultimately may absorb and overwhelm them. The British authorities have eased the situation, slightly by limiting Jewish immigration to about 1,000 persons a month, but this has proved only a temporary palliative.

No village, however, in the Holy Land can be considered safe. American and other foreign visitors are just as likely to be attacked as natives of the country. The more important highways are patrolled by columns of armored cars, tanks and airplanes. But even this cannot prevent the "hit-and-run" tactics of guerrillas. Sniping attacks at night from invisible points on hill and mountain, are especially difficult to deal with, and many British soldiers have lost their lives.

Terrorist Wall Attacked
Even the so-called Terrorist Wall (named after its designer, Sir Charles Tzart, known for his effective work against the terrorists in Bengal and India), which cost the British authorities more than $200,000, has not wholly succeeded in keeping Arab rebels out of Palestine.

Traversing the Galilee and Nabulus districts and running right to the Syrian frontier, this "wall" consists of scores of miles of triple rows of barbed-wire fences, some parts of them electrified. If the wire has been cut in any place, an electric signal at the nearest British outpost is supposed to indicate the exact location of the break. When this occurs British army units immediately proceed to the spot. Frequently, however, the Arab marauders have vanished by the time soldiers reach the spot. In some cases Arabs have succeeded in removing whole sections of the wire "wall" to the roadway, thus blocking traffic of the very army which erected the wall against terrorists. The Arabs have also destroyed miles of telegraph lines and telephone poles.

Reinforcements Awaited
The danger of being waylaid along the roads or attacked in their villages by Arab irregulars has become so acute, that large numbers of Jews who are American citizens have applied through George Wadsworth, American consul-general here, for permission to carry firearms to protect themselves or their homes.

The British "Partition Commission," the second British body of investigators within a period of about as many years, recently spent nearly three months in the Holy Land, trying to establish the feasibility of a tri-state partition of Palestine, with separate "states" for the Arabs and Jews, and a corridor-like "state" under British mandate. Meanwhile the authorities here are anxiously awaiting the arrival of additional army forces to put into operation the government's plan of military occupation of all disturbed areas throughout Palestine.

Cars Badly Damaged in Crash Near Embarrass
Clintonville—Cars driven by Merritt Devlin, 31, of Embarrass and Ervin Kasten, 21, of 507 N. Garfield place, Appleton, collided at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon on Highway 27 about one half mile west of Embarrass when Devlin attempted to turn from the main highway. The crash threw the Devlin machine about 30 feet into a ditch causing cuts and bruises to Miss Linda Splitterger, 24, of Embarrass an occupant of the Devlin car. Minor bruises were also suffered by Donald Peterson, 17, of 413 N. Richmond street, Appleton, who was riding with Kasten. Both cars were badly damaged.

Considerable damage was done to the cars of Charles Lyon, Clintonville, and Alfred Holz, Seymour, when they collided at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon on Highway 155 about three miles east of this city. The accident occurred when Lyon attempted to turn from the highway. Both cars were traveling toward Clintonville.

Committee O.K.'s Resignation of George F. Massey

County Agricultural Agent Takes New Position At Fond du Lac

Wauwata—The resignation of George F. Massey, Wauwata county agent, was accepted by the agricultural committee of the county board at a meeting held in the courthouse Tuesday afternoon, according to announcement by C. H. Bacher, county superintendent of schools and secretary of the committee. Mr. Massey will leave Oct. 1 to accept a similar position with Fond du Lac county.

Raised on a farm in Walworth county, he graduated from the Lake Geneva High school and later from the University of Wisconsin, college of agriculture with a bachelor of science degree, having majored in animal husbandry and agronomy.

Before graduation from college he spent a year as tester of the Verona Herd Improvement association, then two years as supervisor of official dairy testers under the supervision of University of Wisconsin, college of agriculture. After his graduation he was agricultural instructor in the Racine county agricultural school at Rochester, Wis. He then spent two and one-half years at Highland High school as a Smith-Hughes instructor before accepting the position of county agent of Marquette county where he served for four years before coming to this county in January, 1934.

During the years spent in Wauwata county he organized the boys and girls into many 4-H clubs with a total membership of 1,080. He was instrumental in organizing County Livestock Breeders' associations to promote the interest of county livestock breeders and he helped found two county herd improvement associations in which 913 cows are on test. He helped organize the better bulb program to assist breeders in securing sires from good producing cows and to assist those who have good sires for sale to find buyers.

Mr. Massey also organized the bot control program in which 2,500 horses were treated during the winter of 1937-38, and he organized the windbreak and shelter belt planning program in which approximately 210,000 trees were planted. He administered the corn-hog program and then cooperated with the agricultural conservation association in administering the present agricultural conservation program. The home economics extension in this county, which he organized, reaches approximately 200 farm families and he took a leading part in the rural electrification project in the county which includes 131 miles of line in the county, an allotment of $15,000 having recently been made to this project.

Estimate Sixth of "Cropland" Unfit For Cultivation

Lands Might Better be Used for Forests, Grasslands, Experts Say

Census takers list as cropland all the acres actually in cultivation, 415 million acres in 1935, but soil specialists look at it differently, according to information received by R. C. Swanson, county agent, from the federal department of agriculture. Soil experts state a lot of land ought not to be in crops, about 76 million acres or about one acre in six, they estimate.

The remainder is about equally divided between land that is safe under cultivation and land that needs more protection—particularly against erosion—than it has been getting if it is to continue growing crops for future generations.

Bushrod W. Allen, discussing some of the fundamentals of land conservation policy in the current Yearbook of the United States Department of Agriculture, says that most of the 76 million acres that ought not to be cropped are either too poor to support reasonable living standards, or are so steep that protection from erosion costs too much to be practical.

About 161 million acres, the soil scientists estimate, "can be cultivated indefinitely" without serious erosion injury. About 178 million acres is eroding seriously, but this "can be controlled by practices that have been demonstrated to be economically feasible by owner operators."

Putting out of cultivation the 76 million acres of the poorest lands now cropped—lands that might better be used for forests, grasslands, wildlife, or recreation—need not reduce the total area in crops except as this seems desirable for the soil men also note, says Mr. Allen, that there are 108 million acres of land not now cropped—mainly pastures, brush, or timber—which are better than the poorest now in cultivation.

22 Bulls Will be Auctioned At Annual County 4-H Sale

Twenty-two production bred bulls will be offered for sale at the second annual Outagamie county 4-H production bred bull auction at Pierce park Saturday afternoon, Oct. 1.

The large number of bulls raised by 4-H club members in the county this year shows the interest the youths have in raising good breeding animals. Six bulls were offered for sale at the first auction held last fall.

The young Guernsey and Holstein animals were purchased by 4-H members early this year and raised through the summer months. Each bull was selected by a 4-H and breed committee from dams with production records.

Three of the bulls were entered in state fair competition recently and they won first, second and third prizes in their respective classes. Every animal is Bang's disease free and the youths have spent much time in seeing that their animals are well-developed and trained to handle.

The committee in charge of the sale, which will start at 12 o'clock noon, is composed of Walter Weickert, chairman, Theodore Schmit and R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

Steel Production Swings Upward to New High for Year

Slower Rate of Improvement in Output Seen For Coming Quarter

Cleveland—Despite some hesitancy in steel demand, business in most products is steady or heavier, and production has reached 46 per cent, a new high for the year, according to magazine Steel.

A slower rate of improvement in steel output is seen for the coming quarter. Developments the past 90 days have brought operations fairly close in line with actual consumption, in contrast to the excess of the latter during earlier months. Subsequent gains, consequently, will be dictated largely by activities in various steel consuming industries.

Sentiment has been harmed by the unsettled European situation, but as yet only small direct reflection of the war scare is apparent in domestic steel markets. For some time consumers have been cautious in their purchases, thereby providing but slight opportunity to restrict buying further in order to align it with early needs. Nevertheless, the possibility of actual hostilities abroad is given a share of the responsibility for the tendency for steel demand to level off lately.

First Strike Efforts of the automotive industry to expand assemblies were stymied partially last week by the first strike of the 1939 model season. Resultant shortage of bodies for one interest and the further curtailment in Ford's operations in preparation for its start on new model production reduced output for the industry from 17,485 units to 16,100. General Motors turned out 4,675 units, against 2,625 the week before; Chrysler dropped from 6,000 to 5,950; Ford slumped from 5,000 to 5,155; while all other makers produced 4,960, compared with 3,860 the previous week.

Slowness with which automotive steel shipments are increasing partially is offset by sustained demand from miscellaneous consumers, together with a slight gain in railroad requirements and expanding activity in building and engineering construction. A number of railroad shops are reopening for routine repairs to equipment, the program of the New York Central being outstanding in this respect. While freight car purchases in September give promise of being the second or third largest for the year to date, the carriers show little interest in major equipment buying programs. Purchases of track materials are equally scant.

Large Award Structural shape awards last week were the largest in more than a year, aided by the placing of 50,000 tons for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. housing project, Bronx, N. Y., with Bethlehem Steel Co.

Last week's 4.5-point rise in steel-making largely was the aftermath of the Labor day interruption the preceding week. At 46 per cent, operations were 1.5 points ahead of the pre-holiday period, however. Pittsburgh, at 36 per cent, was up 4 points, while Chicago gained 3.5 points, to 41.5 per cent and eastern Pennsylvania increased 2 points to 33 per cent. Other districts to increase output included Wheeling, up 7 points to 56 per cent; Birmingham, up 1 point to 57 per cent; Cincinnati, up 5 points to 63 per cent; and Cleveland, up 5 points to 48.5 per cent. Five centers were unchanged: Buffalo at 49, New England at 60, St. Louis at 42, Detroit at 67 and Youngstown at 46.

Begin Drills for Six Man Football

League for Public, Parochial Grade Schools May Be Organized

New London—Six-man football is being introduced to New London grade school students this week by R. M. Shortell, city recreation director and physical education instructor, and it is hoped a 6-team league of boys from public and parochial grade schools can be organized.

Shortell is resorting to the new type of football because of the shortage of material to make two opposing 11-man teams from each school. Two teams are necessary to allow scrimmage practice.

About 50 boys of Lincoln Junior High school have been practicing passing, running, blocking and so forth the last week and last night Mr. Shortell explained to the boys the rudiments of the 6-man game and the difference from the conventional eleven.

Boys of the Emanuel Lutheran and Most Precious Blood parochial schools will be learning football will be coached by Shortell with others each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. If two teams be assembled from each school a league will be formed with two games each Saturday morning. League play is expected to start next week.

Exponents of the new 6-man game claim it is even better for training beginners than 11-man scrimmage because the fundamentals are brought more into the open and are more clearly grasped, according to Shortell.

Let the Weather Man talk. Let the experts scoff. Youth goes fishing for the fun of it...in all kinds of weather...in all kinds of waters.

The man who has lost the spirit of youth is too busy with gloomy forecasts to gather bait, much less go fishing.

Men with the spirit of youth pioneered our America...men with vision and sturdy confidence. They found contentment in the thrill of action, knowing that success was never final and failure never fatal. It was courage that counted. Isn't opportunity in America today greater than it was in the days of our grateful forefathers? Good!

Court Clerk Loses GOP Nomination In County Primary

Unopposed Neenah Candidates Draw Small Vote in Election

Neenah—In the only contest in the primary election Tuesday in the Winnebago county ticket, Edward C. Abel, Oshkosh, defeated Frank W. Schneider, Oshkosh, incumbent, for the Republican nomination for clerk of courts.

Abel polled 3,653 votes against the incumbent's 3,169. There were two other candidates seeking nomination on the Republican ticket, Ernest R. Vader, Oshkosh, who drew 548 votes and Walter H. Faust, Oshkosh, who polled 1,734 votes.

County Clerk Arthur E. Hedke, Treasurer Earl E. Fuller, and Sheriff Paul Neubauer each received more than 7,000 votes which were purely complimentary because the men were unopposed yesterday and will be unopposed in the general election. Hedke received 7,701, while Fuller drew 7,578 votes, and Neubauer received 7,712.

Two Others In Race

There will be two other contestants in the race for the clerk of courts job in the November election, Wylie J. Rutherford, Neenah, who polled 1,640 votes on the Progressive ticket, and William H. Stegman, Oshkosh, who received 1,423 votes on the Democratic ticket.

District Attorney Lewis C. Magnuson, Oshkosh, will oppose Franklin D. McDonald, Oshkosh, in the general election, both having been unopposed in the primary.

The incumbent, however, received nearly four times as many votes as his opponent yesterday. He received 7,351 against McDonald's 1,800.

Dr. George A. Steele, incumbent, Oshkosh, likewise drew a great majority of votes over his opponent, Martin Potratz, Neenah, in the race for county coroner. Dr. Steele, running on the Republican ticket, received 6,524 votes as compared with Potratz's 1,827. Potratz is the Progressive candidate.

Seek Register's Job

The Republican candidate for the office of register of deeds, George B. Young, incumbent, Oshkosh, also drew the most votes, netting 7,153 to 1,597 received by Richard O'Brien, Neenah, who ran on the Democratic ticket.

Winnebago county definitely voted the Republican ticket in the primary; in fact, only four Menasha wards voted Democratic and that in only four precincts. Democratic and Progressive candidates failed to carry their wards and cities in which they lived. O'Brien received the majority of votes in the Second, Third and Fourth wards of Menasha and Stegman received the majority of votes in Menasha's Fourth ward.

Neenah especially voted Republican, and the three non-Republican candidates from Neenah, Rutherford, Potratz and O'Brien failed to carry a ward.

Shape Plans to Beautify Winnebago County Roads

Menasha — Winnebago county highways will be beautified if the county conservation committee of which E. G. Sonnenberg, Menasha supervisor, is the chairman has its way. The committee which recently was organized by the county board has voted unanimously to recommend to the board of supervisors that 17 additional plots of land contained in triangles formed by highway intersections be beautified and added to the county park system.

The 17 locations, which have been surveyed and located on county maps by the highway department, were described to the committee by E. M. Bird, highway commissioner. The committee expects to propose to the county board at its November session that a reasonable sum of money be appropriated for the planting of shrubs and trees on these plots.

Arthur Kannenberg, secretary, has been instructed to secure estimates of the cost of such plantings. The highway commissioner was instructed to prepare the triangles for seeding and planting.

Maintenance Considered

The problem of maintenance was discussed and Mr. Bird was instructed to consult filling station operators located near certain plots to determine if they would aid in the maintenance. In several instances civic organizations have cooperated in care of the plots.

Locations suggested for additional triangles near the Twin Cities included the barbecue on Highway 41 near Appleton; at Knippel's corner, Superhighway 41 northwest of Neenah; at the junction of AA and A north of Oshkosh; and at the head of Memorial drive, Appleton.

Ekern received the majority, 1,249 to 1,096, after they had been within a few votes of each other through the early returns. Ekern gained against the Neenah and Menasha Progressives.

Bathhouse Used for 25 Years to be Replaced by Ultra-Modern Building

Neenah—Although the new $140,000 swimming pool, beach, bathing and recreation building will be the last word in swimming and bathing conveniences, the facilities which were used for the last time this summer were the opposite. The bathhouse has been in use for 25 years.

When the original bathhouse was erected, 75 swimmers were a capacity crowd, while this summer there were a total of 18,309 persons who took advantage of the facilities. And this summer was an off year for swimming because of the condition of the water and cold weather.

Neenah's history shows that the original bathhouse, which is one-half the size of the present building, used by men and boys, was erected in 1913. The size of the frame structure was doubled about four years later. The first structure had a "bull pen" for boys and

His total in the district was 1,814, and Morrissey received 1,620.

Wallace Beery is seen as "Lunk," once a brilliant veterinarian who has been forced to become a truck bum, because of a framed murder charge. Rooney is seen as a stableboy, who trades his wages for an injured race-horse so that the animal won't be destroyed.

Hollywood — Idol Chatter: Wonder if Leopold Stokowski ever had a superstitious qualm when he reflects that Garbo's other great loves — Einar Hansen, Mauritz Stiller and John Gilbert — all met tragic deaths? Nominated for the most beautiful star-wife: Mrs. Joe Penner — star material herself. Why can't all movie children be as unaffected as the nine Watson kids who have worked in more than 1000 films? Nicknames: Wallace Beery is "Jumbo" to his best friends.

The box lunches served to extras on location cost the studios 75 cents apiece — they usually contain one piece of fried chicken, two sandwiches, a salad, fruit, cheese and a piece of pie or cake. Have you ever noticed how much Henry Fonda resembles early-life portraits of Abraham Lincoln? Sights I never hoped to see: John Boles skydiving his nearly grown daughter home on a milk wagon, after an all-night tour of the cabaret.

With a contract to direct Twentieth Century-Fox features, Ricardo Cortez is one ex-star who can give the Bronx cheer to Father Time. Real star of the American Legion convention is Her Majesty, Shirley Temple—two personal appearances and more than 200 autograph requests. Odes to swank: the snow white nail polish affected by Ethel Merman. This would be a much more enjoyable town if it were not for the bane of contention in every bowl of gravy.

An amusing bit of sign-posting on the Selznick lot. Yesterday, several out-of-town newshawks, looking for the publicity department, wandered into Carole Lombard's bungalow dressing room. After their red-faced departure, Carole hung a placard on her door, reading, "This is NOT the publicity department!"

Marjorie Weaver complained so bitterly about the host of uninvited guests who walked in on an informal party she gave last week, that I dug out of my memory file a recipe which worked wonders for another stellar lady who suffered from the same affliction. After putting up with the cheeky intruders time after time, she finally had cards printed. Each one bore this little verse:

"There was a young man so be-nighted,
He never knew when he'd been slighted,

Democrats Give Grimes Lead of Two Votes; Fritzen Nominated

Menasha—James C. Fritzen, 309 E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, won the Republican nomination for assemblyman from the Second district by a margin of 41 votes over Earl Hughes, chairman of the town of Neenah, in the primary election Tuesday while William A. Draheim, 116 W. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, lost to John F. Grimes, town of Menasha, by two votes for the Democratic assembly nomination.

Fritzen, piling up a heavy lead in Neenah, carried only 9 precincts out of 29 but collected 1,121 to 1,080 for Hughes. Lyall J. Barton, 415 S. Commercial street, Neenah, was third on the Republican ticket with 775 votes while Edward G. Sonnenberg, supervisor from the Third ward of Menasha, was fourth with 687.

Grimes, a son of former State Senator William P. Grimes, received 609 votes for the Democratic nomination while Draheim received 607. Grimes received his support in the towns and villages of the county as well as in Menasha where he polled 329 votes to 258 for Draheim. In Neenah Draheim received 272 votes to 76 for Grimes.

Fritzen's victory was due to the support given him in Neenah. He received 639 votes, to 118 for Hughes; 317 for Pinkerton and 112 in Menasha. He also carried the villages of Winneconne and Omro with 137 votes to 126 for Hughes.

He'd go to a party and drink just as heartily.
As if he'd been really invited."

Ran across Eduardo Ciannelli on the "Gunga Din" set today and was shocked to find him bald as Mahatma Gandhi. He answered my abrupt comment with a torrent of Latin sorrow. Seems the studio wanted his head shaved for this role, but he refused, contending he wouldn't be able to work while his locks were growing in. So the makeup department invented a composition skull cap which fits so tightly over Eduardo's head that he appears to be completely bald. But the skull cap is airtight and Ciannelli not only has a perpetual headache, but his unventilated hair is now falling out. "By the time the picture is finished," he wailed "I am going to be bald. I should have had my head shaved in the first place!"

I like Edward Arnold's story about the quickie producer who ordered a dictating machine. Within a week, he telephoned an angry complaint. "It is no good," he said. "It spiks wid an eksent!"

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

There are too many "Little Jack Horner" business firms today, squandering millions of dollars in patting themselves on the back. The way to win the business is to be the other fellow on the back. Salesmen and advertisers should read this case today.

CASE L-121: Victor D., aged 24, a former student of mine whom I steered into a station filling job.

"Yesterday a man drove into my station with a big car and asked me to fill the tank with ethyl gasoline," Victor told me.

"Then he said he needed two new tires on the front, and asked me to put them on. Naturally, I was pleased for this meant a nice little profit on the deal, and it came from a stranger."

"But I found out he wasn't a total stranger, for he told me why he bought the tires. During that zero spell last winter he was driving from Milwaukee to Chicago."

"He got so chilled he said he was almost frozen by the time he reached the city limits of Chicago. Hardly able to steer his car, he saw my station and pulled in. It was nearly midnight."

Making Service Specific
"He said he didn't need any gas or oil, but would like to get warm. I rolled up the door to my inside grease rack, and told him to drive his car on it."

"Then he came over beside the stove and sat down. I had a pot of coffee simmering, so I poured him a cup. After he got that down, I gave him another one."

"He finally thawed out, and drove on toward the loop to his hotel. He thanked me very sincerely, and said he'd call again someday when he needed gas."

"Well, I never thought any more about it till yesterday when he bought the tires and reminded me of that cold winter night. He said he hadn't forgotten my kindness, and had put off buying the two tires till he was heading down to Chicago again so he could give me the business."

"Pretty nice of him, eh, Mr. Crane?"

Modern Sales Psychology
Yes, it was pretty nice of the customer and also pretty nice of Victor. Moreover, the episode illustrates an important point in modern sales psychology.

We are now in an age of standardized merchandise. It makes very little difference which gasoline company you patronize for the gasoline is practically equal in value. The same thing is true of life insurance, automobiles, etc. You'll get a good car whether you buy a Ford, Chevrolet, Plymouth, etc. and competition has made the price nearly a constant.

This is an age, therefore, in which little things determine the final outcome of the sales situation. The personality of the salesman is often more important than his product.

Little Jack Horner Businesses
There are too many business firms today obsessed with an exaggerated idea of their own importance. They pat themselves on the back and boast about how many years they have been in business.

They strain for some new advertising idea and then sink millions quibbling over hair-splitting distinctions in their advertising, or avidly clutch at some bizarre and far-fetched sales point.

The attitude of millions of customers is "So what?" They don't care particularly which automobile they buy or cigarette they smoke. It makes little difference which insurance company or brand of gasoline they patronize.

But they are markedly influenced by personal favors and courtesies by the salesman. We usually buy from the salesman first, and only secondarily from the firm. Remember, too, that "service" is a vague word until it is broken down into specific acts and favors.

Player May Take Tricks Too Hastily

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Not long ago you wrote an article in which you described a contract as having been murdered. Well, perhaps the following account doesn't involve any crime worse than manslaughter, but it hurt the victim (me) just as much! At rubber bridge this hand turned up:

"West, dealer.
"North-South vulnerable.

A 6 3
K Q 8
A K 9 8 6 4 3
None

WEST
J 9 8 7 2
J 10 6 3 2
J 7 2
None

EAST
K 10 4
Q 9 5
J 10 9 6 3 2

SOUTH
K 5
Q 10
A K Q 8 7 5 4

"The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 3 diamonds Pass 4 clubs
Pass 4 diamonds Pass 5 diamonds
Pass 5 no trump Pass 6 diamonds
Pass 2 diamonds (final bid)

"The bidding undoubtedly was 'all wet,' but since the correct final contract was reached, I hope you will overlook the 'stagger system' method of reaching it."

"East opened the jack of clubs. As you will note, thirteen tricks were ironclad unless the trump suit broke four in East's hand and none in West's. The king of spades and the three top club honors would take care of North's three losing cards. Without hesitation, declarer covered the club jack with my queen. But when West ruffed, thus forcing declarer to over-ruff, one of the precious club honors had disappeared. As North had only two entries to dummy, he could not set up one of my small clubs and had to rely on the heart finesse, which failed. Thus North, by the thoughtless covering of the jack of clubs, manslaughtered an unbeatable grand slam. If he had considered the situation, instead of hopping up with the club queen, he would have ducked and preserved three top clubs for future discards."

"Disgustedly yours,
"J. P. New Jersey."

I can well understand my correspondent's disgust over this hand. I have often commented about the strange impulse that leads players to grab tricks in a hurry, the psychology evidently being that a trick won immediately is worth two that develop later.

It is interesting to note that the contract could have been salvaged, even after declarer's short-sighted covering of the club jack. If North had been sure that the heart king was in East's hand, along with the located club stopper, he could have run off every trump, discarding one heart and low clubs from dummy. This would reduce all hands to six cards. North's would be A 6 3 and K 9 8. East's would be K Q J and K 10 9 6. Dummy would have the king-five of spades, the seven of hearts and the A K 8 of clubs. West's holding would be immaterial. The lead of the ace and another spade would put East out of the running. He would follow to the first round, but whatever he discarded on the second would be fatal to his side. If he blanked the heart king, declarer would cash the ace and king of clubs, discarding the spade three and heart eight then would lead the heart to his ace, dropping East's king. If East chose to discard a club, dummy's three clubs would become good.

This line of play, however, would depend on North's guessing that East had the heart king, a thing he could not do unless East, by squirming or agonizing, made the fact plain. Without those valuable guides, a garden variety finesse in hearts would be just as good a chance. The real point, of course, is that there should have been no need for a guess. Declarer should have preserved the A K Q of clubs by ruffing the first lead.

Keep On Brushing

Something the notion is abroad that brushing will shorten the life of a permanent wave. That is nonsense. The hair requires more brushing after a permanent than before you get one, because the wave process does rob some of the natural life from the hair. That holds true no matter which waving method is used. And only daily brushing and thorough scalp massage will bring back the natural gloss to your hair. A permanent wave requires a lot of attention—much more than unwaved hair. And unless you face that fact and are willing to fuss with your locks, don't go in for a permanent wave.

Frizzy, dry, unset hair is deplorably messy looking. A woman should learn to set her own hair prettily if she cannot afford the time and money required to have a hair-do at a salon.

My advice to such women is this:

For fall hair-care send for my leaflet "Reconditioning Tired Hair." A self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope sent with your request to me care of this paper will bring it to you.

Colors in Forefront

Colors have come to the forefront with the 1938 fall fashions. In this costume, two of the favorites—smoke-blue and wine—are combined in the scalloped jacket and the simple skirt of soft wool. The roll-brimmed felt hat and the bag both are wine color.

IN FRONT OF THE RIBBONS

Dear Mrs. Post: We have moved into a community where people seem to think that a wedding in church is public and every one is privileged to a seat. This attitude is causing me no little worry, because on the one hand I don't want to be thought unfriendly by the townspeople as we love it here and have come to stay for good—in other words, we are building! On the other hand, however, we are having many relatives and friends on both sides coming from out of town. If a great many people in town come to the church uninvited—they will probably come early to get seats—and are not admitted without tickets, won't they be offended? And yet what can we do to assure seats to those we have invited—particularly friends as well as family from far away?

Answer: The simple thing to do is to enclose more pews than usual in the section in front of the ribbon, and give definite pew numbers written on cards to all your best friends in the town as well as to those who are coming from a distance. The seating in the pews will be of course according to the nearness of relationship. Immediately behind the families would come most intimate friends, and behind the very intimate friends, all those others to whom you want to give especially good seats. The plan I suggest is merely that of making the ribbon enclosure deeper than usual.

Since the family and friends of the bridegroom will probably occupy very few pews compared with those you need for your own friends and neighbors, you should of course fill the pews on his side of the church evenly with yours. In other words, if his family and friends occupy ten pews and your family and friends occupy thirty pews, you would enclose twenty pews of the ribbon, and give the ten rear pews left empty on his side to your friends, this way: The eleventh pew on both sides of the aisle would take the people who would otherwise sit in the eleventh and twelfth pews on your side of the aisle. The twelfth pews on both sides would be occupied by people who otherwise would be seated in the thirteenth and fourteenth on your side, and so on. All seats back of the ribbons and on the side aisles would be given in the order of their arrival to those who have no reserved pews seats. Many of these would be invited acquaintances, and some would be strangers.

Since it is always a great honor to be given reserved pews seats in front of the ribbon, all the people who are given these places will naturally feel that they have been shown especial friendliness. Those who have no reserved seats and come too late to find seats in the center aisle pews can not possibly expect a better place than that which the time of their arrival procures for them.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Get your fall permanent after several reconditioning treatments and at least two weeks before you want to look your most alluring! That is, do not rush for a permanent the day before a Big Date and expect to look your best.

A permanent in tired or neglected hair is definitely injurious. It burns and fades the ends. And it is up to you and not the operator you hire, to see that your hair is healthy before making the appointment for your permanent.

Once you get your wave you should allow two weeks to clarify before a shampoo, to allow the natural oils of the scalp to soften your hair. Before the shampoo, give yourself another good reconditioning treatment with a hot oil massage, or special reconditioning oil on the ends of the hair. Then your first setting will be lustrous and softly curly.

Allure of Clinging Vine May Fade After Marriage

BY DOROTHY DIX

"I want a clinging vine for a wife," says a man to me. "One who will lean on me, and depend on me, and look up to me and think I hung the moon. I don't want one of these independent young women who can stand on her own feet, and hold down as good a job as I can and maybe tell me where I get off."

DOROTHY DIX

There are three reasons why the clinging-vine woman always appeals to men. The first is, of course, masculine vanity. Above everything else a man desires to feel superior to his wife. He wants to be bigger physically, stronger mentally, and to have her regard him as an oracle. He wants to be the head of the house, the purse-bearer, and to have his wife in every way subservient to himself.

But before you marry a brainless and spineless woman, take a nice, long walk in a forest and note how many promising young saplings have been crushed to earth by the weight of the vines upon them, and how many sturdy oaks are being slowly killed by the vines that are entwined so tightly about them that their very lives are being choked out of them. It may suggest to you what happens to the man who has a wife who is a burden and not a prop to him.

The second reason that the clinging-vine woman appeals to men is because they have an unfounded belief that the less sense and character a woman has, the easier she will be to manage. They have an idea that the inefficient woman, who never learns how to manage her own affairs and who is so weak she wreaths herself about any one who will support her, is plastic clay that they can mold to their hearts' desires. It is only after they have tried to change the clinging vine into something human that they find that it can't be done.

The woman with intelligence and character and backbone can always be reasoned with, and she can be depended upon to rise to a situation and meet it bravely and wisely, but a floppy fool is hopeless. All she does is to be a burden on her husband, hinder his growth, sap his strength and pull him down to her level.

The third reason why the clinging-vine woman appeals to men is that she touches the core of chivalry that lies in every fine man's heart. She is weak and he is strong. She is defenseless in a hard world, and that is fine and generous and tender in his nature makes him want to protect her, and it gives her the hold upon him that a little child has upon a grown person.

But, alas, the clinging-vine's allure seldom lasts beyond the honeymoon for a man finds that what he really wants in a wife is not a parasite, but a working partner.

THE CLOUDED MOON

By MAX SALTMARSH

THE CHARACTERS
Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.
Archie Lumsden, myself, his friend.
Rene Geiss, head of a murder conspiracy.
Otilie Wills, American heiress.

Yesterday: Venner tells Stahl to leave me alone. Hugo and Otilie quarrel, when he finds her cocktailing with Geiss.

Chapter 27
POSING FOR GEISS

Evening found us on the Carlton terrace, shaking hands with Mr. Virgoe Wills.

He was alone, a fact on which he commented as soon as he had settled us with our drinks. "Surely," he said, "I can't think what's keeping Otilie. He observed, 'Half past four she went out, and two hours is certainly long enough to get your picture made, when it's only a sketch.'"

Hugo stiffened in his chair. "Picture?" he echoed sharply, and the old man nodded.

"This Mr. Geiss was all set on making a picture of Otilie; nothing would suit him but that she should sit for him."

"Do you mean," asked Hugo slowly, "that Miss Wills has gone alone to Geiss's villa?"

The old man raised his eyebrows. "Is there any reason," he asked quietly, "why my niece should not go alone to this individual studio?"

"Every reason in the world," Hugo answered bluntly. "And I know Geiss."

Virgoe Wills frowned, pursing his lips. "She's certainly late," he admitted, "but she's not alone. Cassandra Chubb is with her, and Cassandra, gentlemen, is a woman in a million. She was nurse to my nieces as little girls."

"That's all right, then," I said considerably relieved, but Hugo still frowned.

"I don't want to disturb you unduly, sir," he said, "but have I your permission to go round to the villa and bring your niece back?"

A second time the old man raised his eyebrows; then slowly he nodded.

"I don't entirely grasp the cause of your concern for my niece, but I believe in the disinterestedness of your motives. Go by all means."

Hugo got to his feet, and together we made our way toward the rue du Dragon.

Dusk was falling, and the little street, close-floored in its edging of trees, was dim and shadowed. As we halted before the iron gate of number 57, I was conscious of a goose-flesh sensation up my spine, coupled with a shiver that ran over me like a cold wave. There was something sinister in the very quiet of the scene, so still, so silent, and yet so near the very heart and hub of the town; and when the peep-hole shutter slid aside at our ring and I saw the pale face of the manservant surveying us through it, it seemed to me that he was the very incarnation of evil.

He started perceptibly as he recognized us. "Monsieur does not recognize," he said hurriedly, before we had time to put a question, and the shutter was closed.

We stood there in the deserted

Old Gardener Says:

Crocuses have much to warrant planting them freely because they come early and make an excellent display. No amateur, however, should be satisfied to plant crocuses unless in good-sized groups. A few single flowers scattered here and there are ineffective. It is the common custom to grow them in the lawn, where they can be left undisturbed for years if the grass is not cut until the leaves have a chance to ripen. They also look well planted in groups in a border, and suburban home owners like to mass them in irregular groups near the front door, where they look very well. One advantage of crocuses is that they are perfectly hardy and may be left in the ground for several years without losing their blooming qualities.

He started at that, and his sal-low face grew paler. "Monsieur is well informed," he said slowly, and his open hand came forward

Five Famous Poets

III—HEINRICH HEINE

While Napoleon Bonaparte was master of most of western Europe, a Jewish boy lived at Dusseldorf, a small city near the southern border of a German state. The boy's name was Harry Heine.

When he was 18 years of age, Heine went to Frankfurt, and there learned that Jews were treated worse than at Dusseldorf. They were forced to live in a part of the city known as "the Ghetto." They could go to other parts of the city in daylight hours of every day except Sunday, but could not walk on sidewalks of the main streets. When evening came, they had to be back in the Ghetto, behind locked gates.

Heine had gone to Frankfurt to learn the banking business, but he soon gave up, and returned to Dusseldorf. Then a rich uncle, Solomon Heine, sent word that the youth could come to Hamburg and work for him.

In Hamburg, Heine found that people of his race did not have nearly so much sorrow, and he was pleased when his uncle bought a dry-goods store for him to own and manage. He ran it for a year, but then its doors were closed—the business had failed.

Life would have seemed black to the young man except for one thing—a few of his poems had been published in a Hamburg newspaper. That gave him hope. He might turn out to be a great writer, instead of the business man his family wanted him to be.

Uncle Solomon was a kind man. He supplied money for Heine to study law at three universities, and at last the would-be poet became a lawyer. When he was admitted to the bar, he changed his first name from Harry to Heinrich.

Yes, he became a lawyer, but he didn't practice law. Instead, he wrote books, and some of them grew popular. Because his writings showed he wanted better treatment for the plain people, he was hailed as a leader of the Young Germany movement.

There was no Adolf Hitler in Germany at that time, but there were little rulers. The little rulers got together, and decided they must stop the Young Germany movement.

Said of him, Heine crossed the Rhine, and went to Paris to live. Again Uncle Solomon supplied him with money, a regular income. He wrote more books of poetry, also books of other kinds. In Paris he married a Frenchwoman.

Heine stayed in France for 25 years, until his death at the age of 58. During the last eight years of his life, he was an invalid, suffering with paralysis. Yet he wrote while he lay on his sick bed, and his writings found their way into Germany.

Perhaps the greatest work of Heine was his "Book of Songs." Some of the songs were set to music by two famous musicians Schumann and Mendelssohn. Like Heine, Mendelssohn was a "German Jew."

Kaukauna Swings To G. O. P. Side in Primary Voting

Total Count in City's Four Precincts Lightest In Years

Kaukauna—With a vote of 1,286, the lightest in recent years, Kaukauna yesterday swung heavily toward the Republican party as that organization garnered 733 ballots. In 1936, 1,444 cast their ballots, and in 1934, 1,486 went to the polls. The most popular candidate yesterday was Edward Rennieck local man running for register of deeds on the Republican ticket. Rennieck received 631 votes, compared to 88 for his opponent, Stephen M. Peters of Little Chute. Another Kaukauna candidate, William J. Gantler, aspirant on the same ticket as Rennieck to the state assembly, collected 455 votes in the city, with his opponent, James Sayers, polling 185.

Robert K. Henry, coalition candidate for governor, whose name was on both Republican and Democratic slates, led the gubernatorial candidates with a total of 416.

Goodland, 283, led the candidates for lieutenant-governor, with Edward W. Richardson snagging 196 and William H. Markham, 163. The race for secretary of state wasn't even close, with Fred R. Zimmerman far in front with 507, compared to Lee I. Yorkson's 58 and John Lincoln Wasson's 54. John M. Smith, 402, easily outdistanced Alonzo H. Wilkinson, 167, for state treasurer, and John E. Martin had 347 to Richard P. Murray's 236 in the attorney-general contest.

Wiley Supported

John B. Chapple, who gathered 156. Others were Edward J. Samp, 92, William H. Stafford, 70, William J. Campbell, 59, and Stephen J. McMahon, 42.

Packers Give Talks at Dinner for Kaw Gridders

Kaukauna—Football had its day yesterday evening at Hotel Kaukauna as the Lions club entertained Coach Paul E. Little and his Kaukauna High school gridders. Richard "Red" Smith, assistant coach of the Green Bay Packers, brought four of his stars along. Buford Ray, Bill Lee, Don Hutson and Cecil Isbell, with all speaking briefly and then answering many questions from the Kaw footballers.

Norbert J. Berg was general chairman for the affair, the third such annual banquet. The invocation was given by Deputy District Governor Harold H. Frank, with Lion Tamer Earl Mollet leading the singing. A. H. Mongin, Lions president, introduced Berg as toastmaster.

Respond to Questions

The Packers, all hailing from the south, drew continuous laughter from those present with their anecdotes of college and professional days. Hutson and Lee played together at Alabama, Isbell comes from Texas and Ray is a graduate of Vanderbilt. The four room together in Green Bay, and delight in ribbing each other, and last night carried their good natured feuding along with them. The Kaws had their serious moments also, playing the pros with questions for half an hour.

Naturally everyone wanted to know about the Packers' club this year and Red told them. In his opinion this season's team is 50 per cent stronger than that of 1937, and with the youngest club in the circuit should get no weaker. Red told the Lions. Good reserve strength is on hand this year, a great advantage over the eleven of last fall.

Smith praised the Lions for their annual banquet to the footballers, saying such a demonstra-

Council Will Act On Proposed Law For Bicycle Safety

Kaukauna—Two ordinances are slated to come before the common council at its adjourned meeting tonight in the municipal building. One has to do with the establishment of a bicycle safety club here and the other with giving formal approval for the issuance of $2,000 in bonds to redeem a present obligation. Kaukauna voters passed favorably on the bond redemption question in a referendum yesterday.

The finance committee is supposed to recommend that the city contribute or do not contribute $4,000 toward the purchase of the Grignon home here. The committee probably will solve the question back to the council for decision.

Circuit Teachers To Conduct Trade Courses at School

Vocational Program to Work Under Agreement With Other Cities

Kaukauna—Announcement of a comprehensive program of study in the fields of trade and industry to be given this through a co-operative agreement of the Kaukauna and other vocational schools was made yesterday by Director William Sullivan.

An agreement has been entered into among Kaukauna, Menasha, Neenah, Appleton and Kimberly to secure the services of circuit instructors for the courses. An instructor in each of the classes now being organized will be in this area one day a week, all year, to conduct afternoon classes for apprentices and evening sessions for journeymen and masters.

Classes are now being organized in carpentry, foundry, painting and decoration, plumbing, pharmacy, sales, baking, industrial first aid, electrical engineering, steam engineering, barber science and electricity.

Tuition Free

Some of the classes will be held in Kaukauna and others in the cities of Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly and Appleton. Regardless of where the class is held, Kaukauna citizens are entitled to attend, tuition free, as the Kaukauna Board of Vocational and Adult Education is paying its proportionate share of the cost. The services of 14 circuit teachers will be had each year, covering the field of trades and industries. By the cooperative agreement which has been worked out, the cost will not be any more to Kaukauna than it has been in the past with the services of only four circuit instructors available.

Anyone interested in any of the subjects offered is urged to contact the vocational school office for details of classes. These classes are open to any one provided the

Kaukauna Votes For Bond Issue

Voters Approve Debt Refinancing Plan in Referendum, $12 to 209

Kaukauna—By a vote of 812 to 209, Kaukauna residents yesterday favored the issuance of $32,000 in general refunding bonds outstanding on the loan to construct the high school auditorium and gymnasium. With 1,286 participating in the election, 265 did not mark their ballots either way.

The Third ward polled 219 votes in favor of the proposition and 61 in opposition. The Fourth and Fifth wards cast 218 for and 43 against. In the First ward 291 were in favor or 60 against, and in the Second 174 were in favor and 45 voted negatively.

The city of Kaukauna for some time has had the loan placed with the state land commission, who had been charging an interest rate of course offered is supplemental to their daily employment, Sullivan said.

Low Scores Made As Bowling Loop Launches Season

Kaukauna Electric's Take Lead in Commercial Pin Circuit

Commercial League
Standings:
Kaukauna Electric 3 0
Thilmans 2 1
Little Chute Bottlers 2 1
Gustmans 2 1
Jirikovic's Tavern 1 2
Mellow Brews 1 2
Post Office 1 2
Witt's Paints 0 3

Kaukauna—Low scores were the rule last night as the Commercial bowling league swung into action, opening organized competition for Kaukauna keggers. The Ladies league will begin Thursday night and the Fraternal loop a week from Friday. The Major wheel opens on Oct. 3, giving Kaukauna four leagues.

The Kaukauna Electric and Water Department five got off on the right foot last night, being the only team to sweep all three games, with Witt's Paints the victims. Herb Haas' 550 series on games of 173, 189 and 188 was high for the winners, with H. Paschen getting 444 to lead the losers.

Norb Gerend put together counts of 137, 180 and 157 for 524 as his Thilmans team took two of three from the Mellow Brews. H. Vandersteen led his mates, and all other bowlers last night, with a 562 score, cracking the pins for games of 166, 207 and 552.

Jack Burton was close on Van-

4 per cent. After repeated requests the commission agreed to let the city pay off the loan Kaukauna now is preparing to borrow the $32,000 at an interest rate of not more than 3 per cent which, city officials estimate, will mean a saving to Kaukauna of about $8,000.

It was the opinion of counsel that a special referendum was needed to secure the approval of voters here, and for this reason yesterday's vote was taken.

Mauel Is Reelected Order of Foresters

Kaukauna—Edmund Mauel was re-elected chief ranger of Men's Catholic Order of Foresters, Holy Cross court No. 308, at their first meeting Monday night. Other officers named were Joseph Melchior, vice chief ranger; Matt Weber, past chief ranger; R. H. McCarty, recording secretary; Charles Wagner, financial secretary; Joseph Schlude, treasurer; Mike Faust, senior conductor; Albert Vancenhoven, junior conductor; Jerome Heindel, inside sentinel; the Rev. A. Garthaus, spiritual director; Dr. G. J. Flanagan, medical examiner; Henry Minkbeige, trustee, and Francis Wagner, speaker.

Officers will be installed at the Oct. 3 meeting. Matt Weber, past chief ranger, will be installing officer.

Apple butter, the spicy kind, makes a delicious topping for freshly baked gingerbread, loaf or drop cakes. Frost just enough at a time for one meal and serve promptly. They go very well with fresh, canned or stewed fruit.

Vandersteen's heels with 557, compiled on lines of 183, 197 and 177 as his Little Chute Bottlers took two of three from the Post Office quintet. F. Molz' 469 was tops for the losers.

In the evening's final match Gustmans took two from Jirikovic's Tavern, Bill Bedat's 496 for the winners and Leo Driessen's 626 for the losers being high totals. That the bowlers need a little practice was shown as only one 200 game was bowled. Vandersteen collecting 207. Bill Bedat's 199 came close.
